Chapter 10 Harmonious Twin Flame Union

In the summer of 2015 I was staying in my parents house alone while they were on a holiday, as I did often around that year. I was feeling close to the Twin Flame and trying to work out what that was in the physical while feeling the invisible energy feelings. This was at times confusing, I had even dated someone this summer that I thought could be it but that went off the cliff almost immediately. Then there was this morning when I was sleeping a bit longer after I probably already had woken up earlier. But now I felt myself in my energy form leaving my body that was still on the bed, and in the invisible atmosphere flying somehow to him. When I woke up, I had a vague memory of having discussed many details with him about coming together and how to execute this together in the flesh.

After this episode of astral traveling – that surprised me very much because I was not out to experience this or fantasize it either – we met up a couple of months later it seemed like not much happened, only to years later become clear that everything was happening in these years, everything. Nevertheless I was still fascinated by my false Twin Flame for a long time while this was all playing out. Because I apparently was able to in my energy body work things out with the right source, my True Twin Flame, but I was for a long still not able to fully connect the dots on who that was in the flesh. Later, I got full clarity that this was due to the alignment of my mind with lies and deceit as a result of narcissistic childhood trauma, which eventually is what I as a soul had chosen to work through – that's why it had occurred in my early life in the first place. And I was able to overcome it, and move to the Truth fully.

When I look back on my entire journey, the real thing was intuitively felt and known throughout my life, but the point is to live it in your daily life, in the physical as true, act on it and not care about your traumatic programming and social other people (within reason). Now, had a lot of childhood trauma and care about what people thought about me as a result of that too, even though I was trying to deny that and live sort of 'over' that fact. Healing it to completion and then as a result of that being able to move forward to making come true the life with my True Twin Flame, only came after I was sufficiently confronted and choose to move through my childhood wounds to the peace that would appear after that and it took a while before I was ready to really do that.

Additionally I underwent a transformation on the deeper spiritual level to be able to spread the Twin Flame work; there seemed to be an initiation to becoming the teacher that can bestow Harmonious Unions upon students. Eventually, this all makes that my Twin Flame wisdom comes from Divine Mother who initiated me and my own experiences of that are but an example of how that can come to pass. She had already endowed me with the main Twin Flame tool KEY since a couple of years in 2015, the year when this story starts here. It took time and inner work for me to be able to stand behind all this and be sure that it was right. But eventually, this all was of course also my personal experience of resisting Union (and being the teacher), just like very many resist it. I feel that it is a good practice to sit yourself down and ask yourself if and what you are resisting. Be honest: knowledge is power.

Top 3 reasons why people are not yet in Union

1 They don't believe it, that it is something real and of value, that I am here in their life for this reason and that the tools I bring are right, and that through me and the tools this is truly possible for them. A combination of these things.

2 They think it is not important to be with their Twin Flame or to choose a life with them and to be able to not find it important, you have to be disconnected from yourself on the Source level, because your Twin Flame is you and you are thus leaving yourself alone as unimportant.

3 They fantasize their own reality that denies the fundamental elements of their Beingness that is being a Twin Flame; this can not be a true reality because every human is one. They believe in this reality as if it is their own private, extreme religion outside which nothing exists.

And then additionally, people are not sure they need to go to Harmonious Union, what it is in fact always about as far as I'm concerned (because that is what I pass on!). But it is this consciousness state, that forms the foundation for the manifestation of your physical life with your Twin Flame, always, no matter your situation. You can check in with your teacher to know if you've reached this consciousness place. So Harmonious Union is fundamental, without it, there is no Union to be gotten or experienced. You are through this state of being also sure that it is the True Twin Flame and not the false one, besides being guaranteed that it actually feels peaceful throughout time.

Harmonious Union is for everyone, because it represents the state of being that will answer all your deepest soul desires, that include all your material desires. This is where it all comes true, what's in your dearest dream. Everyone has a Twin Flame; at least the very very very most of people have simply one other expression of the same blueprint walking around just like they do, on earth, because exceptions are truly rare. And everyone has desires, of which of course not seldom that of a partner and lover is a crucial one. People give shape to their lives through partnership and creating a family first, then work secondly. It's nonsensical to not have that be your True Twin Flame in Harmonious Union, because that is simply the one person that is meant to be there in that desire for you and it means having that in the best way possible i.e. harmonious.

True or False

The Twin Flame comes from beyond the world and lives with you in the world, making it possible for you in a very concrete way to relate to that which is your Source. Because they come from beyond this world, it is invisible for the physical eyes who is your Twin Flame but not to your inner eyes and inner wisdom. In practice, the Twin Flame comes and sticks when you've made the gap between you and Source go away, not when you are perfect in form however your form will transform in the whole development tremendously also and to the better. In that sense your entire life will gradually transform into your highest version, to the betterment of your surroundings and humanity, when you keep at it with the Twin Flame.

The self (as in: soul) in self love is your Union, because it is your soul enlightened by Source that is the prerequisite for Union. It is also the end of your spiritual journey experienced right now, asking from you to continually level up to be able to keep on going forward and be together. On the journey you will process all your issues for the very last time; when it is processed to completion the block, trauma, issue or whatever it was that did not ultimately belong to you, you will never have to revisit it and move towards your eternal values and feelings, which is peace and light and other such qualities. This is often quite the opposite of what our life is made out of at first, because there may be many emotions and issues, and it is therefore true that is really is a movement of turning pretty much everything around. The healing necessary is a turning indeed; you've really gotta take your world and turn it around and heal what you have.

The false Twin Flame can be just like someone that seems pretty okay and not too bad to be with, but when you unravel it later on, you often see it was the worst of the worst. The point was you didn't see it at the time, because you were somehow accustomed to that specific sort of malfunction that you were presented with by the false Twin Flame. This indicates there is a form of delusion that is often present in us in the first place, caused by childhood entrainment and trauma, and that of society in general too. Even when your specific false Twin Flame would be a very kind soulmate that is genuinely only doing his or her best, then that is actually really devastating because it can be this illusion of sweetness that gets you stuck and not reach further towards your True one: very sad and even malicious if you think about it.

Whatever the cause is for you to see a false Twin Flame for the True one, you can heal it. Be it childhood trauma, past life trauma, or something else, that is causing you to have your inner eyes partly or completely closed, this can be daunting, but you can overcome it, and in a couple months of going through your actual trauma with inner work, you could be well on your way to a state of healing not able to undo and intense spiritual health, when you have the right tools and teacher relationship. The solution is in fact only about receiving the vibration of the spiritual Truth in yourself and your life fully and completely. It may help to understand that we are already that and also have already all of it, but our conscious, awake, physical life has not received it into it yet, so that's your task. You can for instance see that you are already that, when you dream about the True Twin Flame: you are together in your sleep state, and dreams are the result of that; now bring that presence also in your awake state while pushing out what it's not.

When you are alive, not a baby, not on the verge of death or at the end of your life, and you feel the desire for True Love, you have your True Twin Flame walking this earth also: that's the rule. So it can be reassuring to understand that indeed your Twin Flame is already here somewhere, and people often also feel that, sense it in their heart or have a feeling that they are in a certain part of the earth or something similar. You need to develop your inner compass and prepare your space for their arrival. And even then, they are always much closer than you think they are... I remember I felt sad I couldn't share my life events with him until I realized I was already doing it because I was him! Twin Flame are One. As much as the false Twin Flame is everything that will eventually come out to be not you, the True Twin Flame is what you truly and already are at the core. On the journey there is often still a certain amount of magical thinking, that you wanting a person to be the One they also are, and this eventually gives way to the revealing of the real thing that just simply -is-.

Many have specific difficulties on their journey to overcome that seem insurmountable, such as a difference in religion, country or age. But that is not necessarily so or such an outer issue. The definition of what a Twin Flame Union is and actually going to live it in real life as a relationship, is the thing itself that can already give ginormous healing to be needing to take place. That is because often what is only respected in family and cultural traditions is a marriage bond in the specific dysfunctional way that is considered the norm there, no matter what exactly that is: it can be a subtle or blatant difference, but in essence it is the difference between ego-personality, often expressed as a materialistic exchange, and your soul. Anything else than a Twin Flame Union falls under that somehow, even when it has beautiful names such as a conscious relationship or even a divine marriage: when it is not a True Twin Flame Union or rather a Harmonious Twin Flame Union, it is not the real deal and that can be felt and sensed by in fact all witnesses, and cause the exact issue and block for you to overcome because of your family and social, societal programming. A not-real union is the norm and going against that norm is a huge deal often for yourself, let alone the world around you and how you relate to them.

Concerning the false or True Twin Flame, the issue is sadly often that people think they already know how to do the journey and who it is, and this can be a big block to be open to receive the real deal. You got to be humble and in unconditional surrender to be able to receive the Truth – and that will be incredibly rewarding! Twin Flame Union is possible for the one that listens to the inner Christ (anointed One), hears that voice clearly and actually starts to do what it says. And then also on top of that is able to match physical life with that exactly and make the Christ a full physical experience, including money. This will be also visible in the exact same way with Twin Flame that needs to be fully combining the material world into your inner experiences of the Highest. The co-creation with the outer manifestation is a great achievement that is deeply challenging and then also the most easy ever when you are finally clicked into it correctly because it is (super-) natural after all; it thus combines perfectly the ascension and the love union idea, the higher vibration and the manifested relationship in other words.

Being with the Twin Flame is your actual (deeper) Reality, so overcoming the difficulties to arrive there, will heal you completely and sometimes irreducibly when compared to your before state. It is true that you are each others lessons and you grow from meeting and relating in the before mentioned direction, but you are not meant to let it only be that; you are meant to actively live that marriage as an actual marriage! People can have the experience of going back to square one when they are in their Union, and that's true often because you come into your actual full Reality for the first time, released from everything you are not and that reality in union is not for you. This reset however means that you now have steady ground on your feet and can start to develop in the union co-creation powerfully while having an eternal result that will not be made undone anymore (when you maintain the vibration).

I remember being fascinated and almost obsessed through my false Twin Flame stories; I got into a lasting peace in my true Twin Flame Union. Intensity is not a sign of the Twin Flame but of your resistance to making it come true, which is something you can and will overcome before arriving in the peace your Union in truth bathes. What you want from any relationship and especially your Twin Flame Union is always only going to come from within you, from your relation to the Divine, your Source. And then in that relationship, once it's correctly and fully established, the Divine has to answer by flowing that love through your Twin Flame as well and they will show it to you in action.

You need a Teacher to Reset

To reach your Harmonious Union, go through the process correctly so that you keep on going beneficially after Harmonious Union also, you need tools and a teacher to be in relationship with. The teacher models the relationship within the Union for you, with you, and points you towards your blind spots continually. He or she will make you able to dismiss the many Twin Flame lies that are out there also. Lies about that you are not meant to be together, that the journey and the union are difficult, that your Twin Flame is not here while you are and desire them, and so on; one of the most easy and pervasive false ideas is that you're not meant to be in an actual active relationship as lovers with them fully and completely for ever after and that they are instead only meant to awaken you to your spiritual dimension.

The teacher can guide you while you find out what Divine Love truly is. Not knowing what unconditional love is, is a well known cause of no Twin Flame success. My Twin Flame came to find it was not being robbed from money and having to give children in a social construct where that was socially and materially arranged while excluding the soul layer, but that it instead was the one that loved him faithfully already while not having any of that. Not that I wouldn't work out a co-creation that truly works in the material also, when in our relationship build-up process we are there; this is an integral part of living with your Twin Flame in a Divine Marriage, but it is all taking place in the atmosphere of Divine love and that makes it entirely different from when it is devoid of that. I came to find it is in not controlling my Twin Flame and giving him the freedom to come to his own conclusion and feel his own motivations, that Divine Love resides, in stark contrast with how I was raised.

So, what exactly is this atmosphere of Divine Love, what is the vibration of the True Twin Flame? Can we not make that measurable in a concrete way? People often say they don't feel it and that is because that is not how it is determined. Feeling often means the emotional field of fluctuating movements. But it is in the more subtle field of inner peace in your heart that it plays. To correctly know what inside of you that is, a teacher that you can personally consult and have a relationship with, is the solution. Because this is often unclear, people project their own emotional state of being on the teacher, and therefore sometimes also don't acknowledge the teacher, their Divine Love and/or even their Union. It helps to admit you're not there yet while seeing that it is possible because some teachers are; it helps to open yourself to becoming a student.

This teacher will now give you a number (A-K) of issues to look into, journal about and take action on:

A Often people have it backwards because they work on relationships and trauma to get to the Twin Flame but you got to work on the relationship between you and Source for this only and then when that has succeeded those relationships and trauma will get better for sure and the True Twin Flame will manifest. How can you turn your attention towards your relationship Source (first) right now?

B How the Twin Flame is such a powerful healer and dreams come true phenomenon, is that they mirror the most strong; this is for the blocks as well as for the blessings. What blocks and blessings are you currently able to indicate in your Union and journey towards it?

C Your Twin Flame is an invitation of having Divine Love in your actual daily life. What are examples of where you can already feel that kind of unconditional love being present in your life or in you?

D With your True Twin Flame, your life vision aligns even when you like us have a temporary seeming divide where he got the first children and I got the full return of my spiritual legacy and this took a decade. What's your life vision? Write about it. See it as from you both.

E The Twin Flame is your best friend (1), lover (2), life partner (3) and mission (business) partner (4). But they are your teacher (5) and your student (6) too! How do these roles they have towards you, work out and currently feel for you? Write about it per number.

F Indicate 3 areas where you do not fully love yourself, write them down and work on a plan for how to start loving yourself there.

G Get a commitment ring for your Union, commit and wear it on the journey.

H Change your house to welcome them; what would you throw out and what would you make, change or buy?

I A big difference between success and failure is: do you want to pay the price (investment)? This price is physical, money, time, effort. What can you do in this area?

J My biggest Twin Flame fail when on the journey was: not understanding I could do anything actively in his direction, as I believed and was socialized to not be assertive. How can you be assertive towards your Union?

K The Twin Flame journey comes to bloom when you have your childhood trauma healed; otherwise you'll need to painfully clash with your Twin Flame and heal it when it has already caused the problem. It is certainly true that they are the ultimate catalyst to in fact come to know if you have it and also to aid you in healing it; nevertheless it is of great help when you can come to the admission that you have it and work through it on your own and/or before, especially because they are you on the spirit level and they will be healed also. Look into this for yourself: what's your childhood pattern, entrainment, block, trauma? Healing it is the deeper level of doing the general healing work with KEY (plus out other tools). What are you going to do?
