Chapter 10 Co-creation & Coaching

Theory & Workbook

Theory

To go deeper with co-creation and coaching, we will look into the values that play a role in the Creative Leadership.

1 Letting go to come into your Bloom in a natural way

Being able to let go of what is untrue, is really key to leadership. To do this in a gentle and compassionate way yet at the same time, when things are clear, resolute, is a true life art.

2 Prosperity in the Moment

Your true prosperity is really in the moment, already now, and every new moment, that is really one long eternal Now. This is not some kind of tacky Hallmark card 'wisdom', but instead the Truth. Doing this course will reveal to you what this means.

3 Surrender to the Bigger Whole

Surrendering into the Whole, with all your pieces and parts, is what is necessary to let leadership qualities develop inside of you, because otherwise you would not be able to resurrect yourself from that great ocean of possibilities as the Divine You.

4 Insight in what does not Work and letting that go

Committing to your journey should give you insights as you go, and all insights you uniquely get, will teach you more than anyone would ever be able to pour inside of you through logical explanations.

5 Understanding for myself and in that way also for others

What I have learned through insight, will be so rich, that it will hardly be fitting into a description, but it will be the base for what I can now pass on to others.

6 Compassion in action so that your work contributes to the love of other

Because you pass on from how you overflow, and not from an empty cup, you truly contribute to the other from love, and you never do more than that.

7 Love for your Self

Eventually, you develop only Divine Love (not personal love as a sentiment) for the Self (not the ego) and through that, you become Love Itself, passing on itself from an endless running stream.

8 Focus on the work that will bring love for the long term

Making this work in the daily and in your mission, means to always choose those options and activities that are best in the perspective of the long run, even: eternity.

9 Silence the inner so that you amend to the inside and towards the other

Inner Peace will make your inner life silent; you will always have that undercurrent of stillness in you that is full of value and thus it will be in every activity you do as well.

10 Share from the moment without passing yourself

When we try to give, we give that what we are intending to give, to ourself first and through us, it will also be extended to the other, so value is never lost and giving only expands: this is how exponential growth in the rhythm of the Fibonacci sequence will come into being.

11 Bearing fruit from a real growth and giving space for that

You consciously give trust and space for this enormous growth to start to take place, first at a small scale and slowly, and later on a big scale and faster, all as a natural extension of the former phase.

12 Being yourself in all Circumstances

All these leadership ideas will need to be active in you no matter the circumstances, because otherwise they are simply an act, theatre, and that does not transport the Truth and Love that they reference to as their root.

Working on yourself with this is in sm course, working on each other can here

Creative Leadership means respecting your souls wisdom in action:

- Coach, healer, writer, speaker, entrepreneur, transforming your senses following the creation formula and your professional communication through that, thus creating with soul quality sustainable soul relationships
- Going through the 9 fields of transhuman energy sustenance, reorganizing the three main themes of self leadership
- Learning on and from the 7 paths to the 7 gifts of the universe
- Integrating the 12 points of soulful identity
- Going through the 15 universal lessons towards the core of creation

9 fields of transhuman energy sustenance

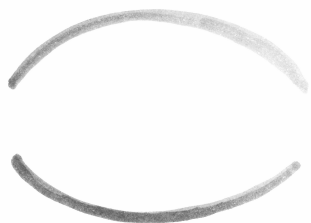

1 BOWL

Stands for, among others: your roots, reset yourself to revitalize, recalibrate your energy to the factual truth and to your birthright abundance.

The Light coming through this entrance of Conscious Creativity, brings, when received, the certainty of the experience of living on the Earth as our home planet. It casts out all experiences of not belonging and of alienation with one's human and bodily nature and environment. It makes our experience of our Divine Consciousness seamlessly be also the one of our individual daily life.

Daily life topic examples: justice, food, shelter, birth, your bloodline and descendants. You can be over or underdeveloped in this matter.

2 EYE

Stands for, among others: destroy what is no longer needed, the fertile dark night and the vast space of the universe in which light appears, the place where your personal ground meets the universal baseline, seeing the key to creation appear that exists for you in a meditational approach, resetting your personal experience to one where you naturally fall into place where all illusion falls away.

The Light coming through this entrance of Conscious Creativity, brings, when received, clear sight to see Truth, by seeing what is illusion. It casts out all experiences that stand wrongful on your ground, to prepare space for your coming into bloom with who you truly are, so your creative identity will come forward and start developing towards a blossom.

Daily life topic examples: untying knots with ancestors, bloodline and past lives, resetting your energy field, basic daily life processes and needs. You can be over or underdeveloped in this matter.

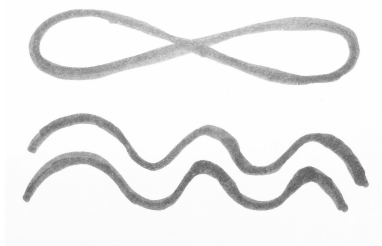

3 MOON to the right

Stands for, among others: the energy of Selenitus which is the moon of your consciousness that reflects so perfectly how much light you receive and on what places, which is within your individual energy system the internal divine feminine, it represents where you come home in your uniqueness, and exudes your specific kind of energy that can be sealed for specific focusses into heart seals, and is the place from which one works with this energy points approach.

The Light coming through this entrance of Conscious Creativity, brings, when received, your sensitivity to life in a refined way in which you taste reality and this will adjust your ways of dealing with your reality, from a very basic sense standpoint. It will cast out all foreign energies and send them back to where they belong, so your experience will be freed up from energetic leaks.

Daily life topic examples: sexuality, home, clothes, identity, relationships, beauty. You can be over or underdeveloped in this matter.

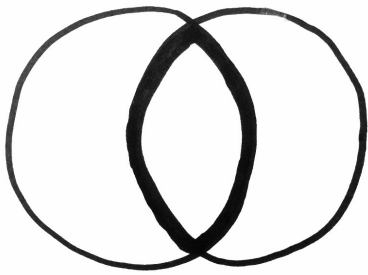

4 INFINITY WATER

Stands for, among others: social love, seeing in everything the silver lining, acknowledgement of self and others for what they are by naming their illusions and expanding that to acknowledge the love, it means to have compassion, and it falls together with understanding the full process-and-procedure-approach of the creative flow that life really is, and comprises desire techniques that attract your good.

The Light coming through this entrance of Conscious Creativity, brings, when received, experiences of self acknowledgement and the many formed riches that bring with it, such as social interactions, clients, inflow of money and outflow of money, the full actions of assistance, coaching, healing and so on. It casts out all that is not conducive to the exchange of love energy and provides for automatic and natural boundaries.

Daily life topic examples: sales, helping people, self acknowledgement, feeling power, having the energy, eating. You can be over or underdeveloped in this matter.

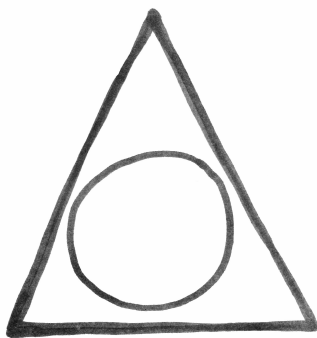

5 HEART Vesica Piscis & Mandorla

Stands for, among others: the experiential Heart space, the central space of Being, where your core intentions are experienced, anchored, supported and shared, your core love identity is located here as the attunement of your Creative ID, this is where heart magic spontaneously happens and where deep insight is received into your deepest desires and motivations.

The Light coming through this entrance of Conscious Creativity, brings, when received, the true nectar of inner peace, the support for any and all actions that are connected to it and that come naturally and automatically through it. It connects you both to personal and divine love. It casts out all that is not attuned to this most precious source energy.

This energy point has two sides which are called A and B. A is the back side, where the Vesica Piscis is envisioned. B is the chest or front side, where the Mandorla is envisioned.

Daily life topic examples: attraction, love, sharing, understanding, social life, experiencing Divine Love, making Choices. You can be over or underdeveloped in this matter.

6 CIRCLE IN TRIANGLE

Stands for, among others: sustaining the communication that comes natural in relationships, the pure white background of the energy of communication done from integrity, building structures that are supportive of source creativity, communication in all forms, coaching with the understanding of creative processes and holistic entrepreneurship.

The Light coming through this entrance of Conscious Creativity, brings, when received, a clearing of your speech and actions and all other forms of communication verbal or nonverbal. It opens you to more attuned forms of expression, to source energy including your individual attunement. It casts out untruthful words and actions, which also from here can be actively removed by certain truthful energy communications.

Daily life topic examples: communication, building structures, order in your life and work, creativity, co-creation, collaboration, leadership. You can be over or underdeveloped in this matter.

7 MOON to the left

Stands for, among others: the energy of Hyenithus which is the Sun of your consciousness that exudes so perfectly the light of your soul that is connected back to source, which is within your individual energy system the internal divine masculine, this the place where creative leadership is born, which is a way of co-creational, participatory leading that understands the laws of creation.

The Light coming through this entrance of Conscious Creativity, brings, when received, the individual translation of the source wisdom you can read. It opens you to hearing guidance of how to attune yourself in a more refined way to make come true your soul's true birthright bloom. Correctly hearing source through your ears clears you fully of untruths on which nothing grows of value. This is where the seed of true Value lies, that is made true in its counterpart, number 3.

Daily life topic examples: wisdom, knowing, inspiration, leadership, Divine Order, hearing your inner guidance, feeling mentally stable, having an open mindset. You can be over or underdeveloped in this matter.

8 BURNING EGG

Stands for, among others: the place where the sparks of valuable ideas are born, the glowing golden light of source that is ever inspirational, the place where through a conversational and story approach truth can be found, where the true story of creation starts.

The Light coming through this entrance of Conscious Creativity, brings, when received, relief for the coming about of grand ideas, that give shape to life and earth purposes, translated through mission (deep motivation to be and share from that) and visions (applications). It brings you the enlightenment of how your personal life is connected to the bigger whole and to the source of consciousness. It casts out all displaced purposes, and meaninglessness. It brings forth an intense flame of spiritual passion that helps with all transpersonal, meaning transformational processes between people, coaching.

Daily life topic examples: pure inspiration, Divine Intervention, sharing stories. You can be over or underdeveloped in this matter.

9 SWORD

Stands for, among others: the connection to heaven, the place where healing light codes reside, which one will be able to heal with a light surgery approach.

The Light coming through this entrance of Conscious Creativity, brings, when received, direct co-creation with source, as such is also through your Twin Flame. It establishes a transhuman bridge to being a multidimensional co-creator. It casts out all other partners and sideline influences in all dimensions and all times. It repairs your complete human soul fabric to how it is meant to be by source, as a vehicle to ascend with and come Home in.

Daily life topic examples: feeling safe in all circumstances, unconditional support, transpersonal relationships such as with your Twin Flame and your spiritual teacher. You can be over or underdeveloped in this matter.

7 Paths to the 7 Gifts of the Universe

Graces of Source

- 1 Unconditional love
- 2 Unconditional giving and receiving
- 3 Self acknowledgement and universal acknowledgement
- 4 Being a child of the universe
- 5 Time and space to develop yourself
- 6 Soul equivalence as a basis for co-creation
- 7 The spark to express and act from the Exalted Heart

1 Unconditional love

Good family, states the card of the Mary Magdelene Oracle (by Tony Carmine Salerno) that inspires number 1, showing a tree, and isn't that so often the opposite experience? Parents being conditional towards their children, thus creating the soil for passing lovelessness further on, and so on. But look at it like this: unconditional love comes from within and how would we be encouraged to look within ourselves if there wasn't any tension in our outer life? It is natural to have human problems in creating the loving atmosphere that we all deeply crave, since we do not know it yet. We are physically born, yes, but Becoming Human is to be birthed as a soul from that first state. Furthermore, by stepping into that process, one is able to instead of the often clinging bonds with blood family, go in-relationship with soul family, which gives another dimension to every aspect of life. Stop manipulating yourself - is the key to that process of homecoming.

The wand will provide you whatever you need by magnetic resonance so that your love becomes freed up of needs and become unconditional indeed.

2 Unconditional giving and receiving

Knight of Cups, states the card (a traditional tarot deck) that forms the inspiration to number 2, and he presents us the cup of life while sitting at his horse, but is giving not often conditional? Shouldn't we be afraid to receive because someone might want to have something back? Would we want to have something in return ourselves, when we give? Does life want to have something back for the body we have gotten as a tool to move through the earth and gain experiences that are not possible otherwise? Life is a womb that just gave us us - unconditionally. Our ability to receive without fear as a first step is being asked to start coming out. Giving can only stem from being full, so getting filled (with light, with soul...) is the first question.

Praying (the rosary) will give you the faith and confidence you need to be sure that life births through you and to you everything your birthright states just like the natural result of a sexual act.

3 Self acknowledgement and universal acknowledgement

“The highest goal in my life is to be happy,” states this spiritual wisdom card that is an inspiration to number 3 - which is important to know because it is not the personal card deck (it is the spiritual card deck instead), then it could have been quite egotistical statement. However when the Soul states this, it is all from quite another order. It is the moment, to be exact, that a true, heartfelt order starts moving into place for you, finally. To truthfully accept and value yourself is an art that is not passed on by our traditional education systems, nor is it granted by family bonds, our professional system does not have time for those things and our children always seem to be needing more time than we grant our inner child - but nevertheless it is the only way to become the Full You and All You Soulfully Can be for others. Who desires to serve, needs to start serving their own soul first, to discover the true happiness in which a peaceful earth mission thrives.

Your soul essence can be entered in the exalted heart space in the upper chest and selenite crystal might help you to reach into it, or ask in spirit Hyenithus & Selenitus, the 2 Divine Masculine and Divine Feminine parts of Solara, to reach out to you by intention or light code healing.

4 Being a child of the universe

“Do I take care of myself well now? I only say ‘yes’ when I truly feel I can relate to that,” states the card that forms an inspiration to the truth of number 4. The inner child and the inner parent in us are interrelated but are they free towards each other? Can you be playful and also take care of yourself well enough to be making sure you are able to play tomorrow as well? Because playing is truly what we do on earth: our processes will always be messy and our results imperfect. Your procedure will nevertheless be your unique fingerprint and will come about best when cared for enough so the experience will still be perfection. Luckily the adult is not alone in that responsibility - just like the child, for it is the universe itself that will guide and protect both when fully tuned into it. So that is the invitation here. Saying “Yes” to the universe means to say yes our soul and our life on earth consciously, and earths stones will remind you of that for they present us beingness in pristine form.

Collect your own stones on a walk in nature and place them as a reminder on your fav spot.

5 Time and space to develop yourself

“You collect information and numbers to work on a growing strategy in the dark,” the card states, that forms an inspiration for number 5. It is the B1.2 card of the Manifest & Heal Cards by myself, it comes from the builder series that co-creates from the heart as soft as a feather. In this process you go from the dark nothing to a shiny something - which is an enormous leap, and when researched further by consciousness: the only step there ever exists in every new moment. The universe gives you every moment the space to be conscious of yourself and the surrounding forces and this true gift means you are allowed to experience what presents itself for you at a given moment again and again until you find direction. You are allowed to develop in that way: fall back to your pristine state of listening to the moment. Organic growth stems from that - so that fear can be obliterated as well because you stay close to home every step. The waters of wisdom are reachable when you leave the moment without billowing. Peace is the groundwork for any building step.

Find your inner peace through meditation.

6 Soul equivalence as a basis for co-creation

“The woman on top,” a sexual position card from the tantra deck by Macleod & Bright that is of inspirational influence on number 6, states that the man on top might be traditional but the woman on top is a creative addition when allowed in. The opposite can also be said: men at the bottom is a creative alternative next to what many people are used to - when the brain is put in another framework, creativity can often start to flow and that is what we are after when we are true inhabitants of the universe in a soul based way. Now, it doesn't really matter that one side is traditionally this and the other that (you can call it unfair and write libraries full of protest against these perspectives, but in the end they are just only that: ephemeral perspectives and they never were more). True change doesn't stem from changing roles but understanding that the soul is in fact the underlying truth of any role we could possibly play or discard. In that understanding, we can be equal and relationship starts there.

Unlock the true identity of your souls longing by activating your DNA through attunement with the flower of life.

7 The spark to express and act from the Exalted Heart

“Writing: you heal, inspire, teach and amuse with the words that you write.” Doreen Virtue, maker of that card that is of inspirational value to number 7, is a beautiful example of what writing can do: it makes you a recognizable person that spreads wisdom, coaches people and speaks and acts from inspiration. For many people it is the baseline of becoming - and it might also for you. However preferences may vary and writing in itself is not for everyone a profession, but expression is something every human truly longs for, for our souls true calling is to share what and who we are. We all have that spark within us because the universe provided us with the wiring that is at the basis of it. You could be clouded as to where and how that spark springs - and nothing more human then that. Clear your sight on that by allowing yourself to experience your mission.

Make a stroll and see how nature signs like feathers might give you clues that only you understand. Easy does it: you are surrounded by clues that will eventually open your heart up, via which you see presented before you the steps to your Exalted Heart, where you will shine like the unique Star that you truly are.

Co-creation with your soul identity

- 1 Descending to ones energetic truth
- 2 The true stage of giving and receiving
- 3 The abundance of relationship
- 4 Awakening in the field of pure life
- 5 Allowing as a manifestation tool
- 6 Your true blueprint is not a protest

- 7 The power of transformation
- 8 From stone to crystal in the Heart dimension
- 9 Feather light co-creation
- 10 Stop identification
- 11 The great traverse
- 12 From value to becoming true

1 Descending to ones energetic truth

Masculine and feminine are somewhat theoretical topics because they represent all kinds of qualities that are not able to separate on an ongoing scale from masculine to feminine and vice versa. In a way, this is an artificial division between two aspects that definitively complement each other. However it is a helpful instrument any way. Mostly when one realizes that nobody is as energy body fully one or the other and at the same time you are on the soul level within your union one or the other fully; not to confuse you but as a matter of fact. That is to say: on the body and energy level; here comes the kicker though: at spirit level you are Divine Feminine or Divine Masculine in your Union (at the same time, one layer cannot be without the other and the latter can be conceived as the overarching or final one).

We continue on the soul and energy level, that however has the seed of spirit in it. Energy is the truth of what we live, on earth and outside of it. Energy is the substance that gives you a true indicator of where you are, what you are and who you are, however it is not material in nature. It is however the basis and precursor of everything that is material. Energy is the air we breathe in a way before our life on earth as physical beings starts. Energy tells you where you are and where you go. When you follow your energetic pathway you eventually get to your Union where you will understand what over-all energy you are as part of that togetherness (the seed of spirit in your energy: Divine Masculine or Divine Feminine).

Reading the energy of people is a Truth finding, in the most positive way. When we look at a woman you will see the female and masculine energy in her internal wiring in a certain relationship towards each other, her feelings towards her thinking towards each other. This relationship is a striking self portrait for all her life aspects including relationships. For a man this is the same and when you at this moment feel you are in between, as well. For Twin Flames this shows in the Divine Feminine and Divine Masculine and how they treat each other – and that goes for other relationships as well but less obvious.

Energy is something else than your thoughts or how you express your gender in worldly life, no matter how beautiful you style your actions. What is more, people have the option to hide and lie with styling their form of appearance in any way. This also comes to light in a difference in what you say and what you truthfully are: it is important to have it sorted out in you.

Energy is not your personal feeling about situation or your emotional reaction to it, rather it is the true vibration that is in your heart. It is a soft flow of value and truth, with an undercurrent of grace carrying your souls energy blended with your spirit's Divine Feminine or Divine Masculine truthful seed. Because energy does not lie, you can see here how you are attuned to the other: something many people ask themselves in soul love situations as well as business. You can see this because this is how you see how you are attuned to your soul and your Source. Also because you can see here how you are attuned to thinking and feeling and thus how you are attuned between the forces of masculine and feminine.

Is there a poor female energy and a sick masculine one? Maybe they can even be a working pair but not a very high vibe one! It's not whole or full of value. Sometimes you start healing and you will let your feminine energy more in. You start a meditation practice or pray, you dance and sing, you become a soft presence that does not judge and all kinds of small life details become very relevant for you and you fill them up with love. Sometimes you start to heal the inner masculine energy and you learn about structures, money and think more powerful thoughts. Understanding these sides co-create within you, is key. Both are eventually fed by the soul, and the soul by Source.

Leadership is letting both energies come to a high frequency by letting the soul work on them through Source. They will come into co-creation and this also instigates your twin flame quest in the bigger level of your soul (that is the spirit), because this is in fact the co-creation that that indicates. Herein lies a sexuality; this is in essence a tantric process. This energy exchange will eternally move once started, through your individual energy system and through your Union – and from there spread in the world.

Points to keep in mind with energy transformative processes, are for instance: you may remain stuck in the current way of thinking and feeling and forget that the energy level is the undercurrent of it; you forego making contact with the undercurrent itself and are lost in what is build upon it. Another point of attention is: not allowing the co-creation to spontaneously happen, not giving space for that. In this case you may not trust the process of healing and the growth that one or the other side of the energy duality will come out strong. However they are different in working, the frequency of both are always at the same wavelength; they may transform in a visible way on alternate timings.

Male energy works acknowledging, awakening and expanding. Female energy works protecting, caring and healing. Both are of equal importance. However the idea may be offered in the world a lot of the rise of the feminine; in absolute terms this is exactly halfway true. It's both aspects that can grow, emancipate themselves, become conscious of themselves in new ways and learn to cooperate in fresh perspectives. This is also true in your personal inner healing journey: giving all the attention to the feminine energy will leave the masculine alone and unloved with his own particular trauma that will sabotage your life. Both are ready to heal, when you are ready to descend to your energy truth. The over-all state of being in our worldwide 2020 culture will roughly need mostly a male energy healing and a newly introduced male god image; from there all can heal because of the nature of what has been formerly relayed.

2 The true stage of giving and receiving

Balance is mostly an ideal that has not very much to do with reality. Balance is a word that stands for a human state of being that looks to be very beneficial, but when you look at it with the eyes of realism it has often not much to do with the reality we are currently in. Your energy truth is your actual truth, it is who you are in your Divine Masculine or Divine Feminine core, in how you feel these energies are correctly flowed into the actual holder of it between you and your Twin Flame - and that is the actual basic material we are working with concerning this topic of balance.

We can only work with the energy truth that you are, and not the energy truth of what you think is a nice idea to be that person, not with a mask, a role or an alternative personality we conjure up with all kinds of motivations behind it. When you desire an actual miracle, you need to work with the actual true energy state of who you are, otherwise the miracle won't arrive or plainly screw you. Accepting the energy truth that you are, with all its imperfections, could perfectly be the one and only answer to what you have been craving all your life. But you may have been searching this from outside answers such as masks and roles, or just being a tiny bit too friendly to people who are not committed to love and truth.

Let's not manipulate the energy one moment further. Let's not try to change it, but see it for what it is, so that a miracle can come in and recalibrate it back to Love. The miracle can arrive when you see that trying to change what is, is madness and trying to achieve the Love that is the miracle, cannot be done - for it can only be received. You will receive it guaranteed when you are surrendered to the cosmic whole, or source of creation, or God - that is the only 'achievement' we will ever need.

Because only the cosmic whole is in balance - however we hardly understand how with our tiny brains. Why does one get so much of wealth in the form of cars, wives and money and the other a father with a disease to take care for, two uncomfortable jobs to work on to be able to pay for all medical and family financial responsibilities and a marriage that never truly feels right and loving? Is that fair? Why is there hunger in the world, and war? Why does only 1% of world inhabitants enjoy financial riches? However all these perspectives are unrelational. You now only look at these phenomenon from the outside and say: look there!

When you can see that, and you can stop pointing outside of you to phenomenon as if they are not inside as well, a new reality commences. This new world is not different in form per se, but it feels entirely different. A small spark of relationship has commenced, of truth, of value, of the notion of being of tremendous importance yourself and of having a positive base in the soul. So you understand that you exist - and that is where relationship starts, with everything. Going deeper in that "you" is a possibility arising to deal with situations even more differently than you are feeling them right now. This is not manipulation but being influenced by the light of experiencing the soul. This is the core of relationship, where your energy is being a bridge to the 'other' thing, becoming you.

The cosmos is the great giver of gifts, and Source of Creation a.k.a. God is at its steering wheel. We are often not truly open enough to see this. This cosmos is the giver of energy for you to be able to experience what is even present in your life. Dive deep into yourself in the method just revealed - then you will at a certain moment reach the state of experiencing you yourself are the cosmos and you feel God in you. You know you are a child of it, and its mighty power flows through you, so that you now have something to give to others indeed. You stop looking at situations for what they are going to give you but instead you become the giver of energy in situations, so that you create new, better, richer situation from that.

The stage of giving and receiving between people often looks quite differently than we think it 'should be'. Sometimes a meeting from soul to soul gives rise to the situation where one person receives so much acknowledgment and love and care, so that they are completely supported through their transformation of that point, while the other in the same relationship situation walks away and acts in ways that seem illogic and against the flow. This asymmetry can feel rounded again when one foremost looks at the inner whole of oneself instead of what we think we perceive in the outside world. The overflowing abundance of the universe 'pays' itself when we can surrender to the inner processes and perspectives instead of the outer riches, images and judgements.

3 The abundance of relationship

Imbalance is a part of life that has a meaning. When you are able to think in terms of soul growth instead of deficiency, then you will see imbalance is but a stage of growth, a precursor of a fresh level of inner richness. And you can see that a higher frequency of inner abundance is a precursor for manifestation of outer wealth, in whichever form that may be desired and occur. We are speaking here foremost about relational abundance: being in the flow with yourself so that you can share peace and joy with others.

Some say that starting with enjoyment and pleasure is the key, and we say: no, there is a big chance you then will miss what we even mean with inner joy and peace like that, when you first try to run towards your shallow pleasures. Not that there is anything wrong with pleasure, but often it is an interpretation from the frequency that you actually desire to bring up – leave it for an even greater good.

On another note you cannot omit where you are now. Enjoying exactly where you are now is the base and key to vibrating up any way. Seeing the best of what already is, preps your vibration for raising and brings you into alignment with the best of your current frequency, which can bring your vibe up because now you are focussed on bringing more love where there already is love. It is as if you are walking on a staircase, because you long for more of what is already so good in the present moment.

This is an eternal dance, that goes ever deeper and ever higher in vibration. It is the playground itself, so that you do not need to look for bigger pleasure in other playgrounds that are not yours. Enjoying the pleasurable aspects of right now is the natural cause of expansion. It may be full of imbalances, because the stage of life is always waving and flowing like the sea. The tides are always present because we have the moon pulling on our earth's water. We can be sure it brings us growth of crops and a new day and a new summer. This natural rhythm is connected to everything and all: they represent the cosmic powers of planetary systems - ours and others too.

Try to see that for everything there is a season. For being alone there is a season – and better make it a long one to be able to get everything out of this uniquely blessed situation that is ever possible for it holds your truest gems and biggest presents. And for Union there is a season too, while realizing this season was underlying already present in the "alone" season. For conflict there is a season because it brings you growth towards Harmonious Union. The back and forth in relationships is the biggest source of growth! To finally see that the Ultimate Love was always there and will always be, and your seasons were just layers you peeled off. When you can see this, you no longer have to be afraid of ebb. Only now you can see flow for what it is.

Transformation means: having lived ebb and flow and for that reason move up fast, towards your true desires. When you are not able to really live the full depth of the bankruptcies that are granted you in this life, there are two options: or you remain shallow in life, or you learn how to integrate the energy of the bankruptcy before it ever comes to you so that it does not have to become that bad. People do not see this often and remain stuck in a state of complaining, which to them feels like the heaven they called in while it is actually hell. Complaining may seem like that shallow pleasure we advised you to not follow.

Transformation reaches deep until in your DNA. That is where the movement persuades you in the helix up as a natural result instead of a wanted something. Wanting is often a power that is cut loose from the whole, from the heart and from desire. This needs healing attention and being put back in the whole and only then our willpower can be tool in this process too. Many people want spiritual transformation and manifestation from the unconnected, unrelated wanting and this just doesn't work. The not correctly attuned wanting here is often the only reason this does not turn out well for them. While the transformed and connected wanting becomes a willpower that will direct you higher up in a natural timing.

These stories are about the energy of transformation. It can come into being when you make space to create peace with energy streams that are seemingly working against each other and aspect of their existence. Now you can consciously refocus. But then again consciously does not mean: with willpower (only). Divine Masculine and Divine Feminine energies are dancing with each other already when you sitting peacefully still and connecting to your soul, which is the ground where this takes place. Not that now will loose yourself in dancing; instead be vigilant and experience that which is already here. That is where your abundance is. That is where your wealth resides – and your fun in the process too.

4 Awakening in the fertile field of consciousness

Transformation means to see your mind for what it is, your thoughts. This is strongly related to masculine energy. A masculine part that everyone has, no matter how you identity in terms of gender. Your mind can be strongly developed and a huge vehicle for manifestation, however is this also co-creation with the universe and the Source of that? Is the male energy separated from the whole in this and does it believe to be able to explain everything away in a mental way and therefore own it? Transformation indicates that the models of the mind for the world of experience, become softer, flowed through with essence and eventually dissolve as separate entities.

Thought grids can be good instruments for many things: financial administration, economy, business building but also culture studies, art history and creative theory, even spiritual laws and their universal working on people and the world. But when the instrument looses its instrumental value and gets to stand on its own, will even be celebrated as a thing in itself and people forget the living reality it points to...

Forgetting this is much more a common experience then we may realize. It is persistently present in all layers of our child raising, education, work and family life. The life force that is every moment Now and full of tingling energy... has never heard of such structures. Structures form a long stretched path that will eventually end at the shore of the ocean, value, love and life force. That is where you respectfully put your shoes off. You can only go in the water with bare feet.

The male energy has a tendency to detach from this bigger truth that gives him life and sustains him. Because when you take away structure, you are left with life. However when you would throw away pure experience in the Now, then there is also no structure, method and regulation system possible or even needed. This is how you see the order of things. The proud masculine mind will sometimes forget this: the male energy that became self absorbed and lost the ability to co-create with something else.

The male energy however is at the same time the One that can – living in the open space of vibrant life – bring you to Awakening. It is the one that recognizes and acknowledges definitive points in life: where you are Now; where you stand in the grid. This is your Point of Awakening. There are two sides to this: where you stand with your feet, that is in the unending ocean of eternal life; and the point of reference, the Where.

This is how the male energy is a sane force that rights your back and reinforces your natural pride in Being – instead of an unhealthy clinging to the ego. The male energy longs for this awakening to be his forte fully and reign over its powerful assertion. Now, the thinking mind has come into relationship with the soul and a soulful power emerges. Transformation has a role for him. This is where he is needed and desired. Thank the Divine Male Principle for His Presence.

5 Allowing as a manifestation tool

Healing the imbalance between your Divine Masculine and Divine Feminine soul expressions (as two bodies present in your Union) takes place when you allow the healing of it. In essence allowing is one of the most important healing tools in existence in the entire universe.

Allowing is a condition you have creational power over – within limits, but at least a lot more than most people would believe it to be. Imbalance or in other words illness is a circumstance that most of the time looks like something that happens to you without your consent so that you are the victim of it. That is how it is perceived as an unwelcome guest that is being rejected, whether it is in fact an energy imbalance we are in truth speaking about, a virus or an emotional trauma or whatever else; things that are by the way all related any way.

When the illness shows itself, the time is already over in which you have been co-creating on the cause of it without fully understanding that you did this, just like your cells have a viral guest that it did not fight because it was disguised as something good so that it corrupted the healthy working of your cells further and further. The energy is already gone from its powerful central place, when you finally notice something on the surface is not alright anymore because your functioning has halted and you need to take measurements to solve your daily life issues.

Just like you unconsciously had given illness permission however you realize this only later, that is also how healing needs your permission. Now it needs your conscious decision to be influenced by life and the positive, radiating influences that are connecting within it. Conscious allowing in of light looks a lot of the time different than we think it needs to look. You could lay yourself down on your bed at home or in a hospital, but whether you truly give conscious permission from the soul out to be influenced by the light for healing remains to be seen. There is a possibility one is addicted to the idea of being cared for and an identification of being a patient, through which you get attention and a recognizable life as the victim of something acknowledged by society.

The word conscious however means you are going to make contact with your core energy and that you are going to do what it inspires you to do. These instructions are most of the time very clear and not able to misinterpret. When you are being asked to lie down for a certain period, you do this and you experience exactly what runs through you at those times – which is most probably the biggest chaos ever. Healing imbalances on the energy level can only happen through allowing chaos. Live through the energy creation you had earlier created and allow fully the feeling of being ripped apart by this process.

We desire to say here: take care of yourself, close the door and put a healthy meal ready to be eaten next to your bed and a jug of water too. But do not try to deter the healing process by all kinds of reasonable things your brain comes up with on its own – because logic never caused soul healing in the history of mankind. Of course you are never held apart from visiting a scientific doctor of any kind. But we do desire to make you aware of your inherent healing power and what you CAN do to allow yourself the needed healing.

We are multi dimensional healing masters, coming to you from a cosmic atmosphere of leading edge innovation. We come with our healing tools made out of Codes and our operation rooms of Light when you are open to receive us and allow us consciously to help you heal. Your possibilities to heal into something so much bigger and better then you ever thought possible, arises out of a deep trust and a feeling of friendship between all dimensions that we and you represent and inhabit.

6 Your true hologram is not a protest

Female power is in its simplicity related to earth energy, to nature. She is full of feelings and warmth in her greatest power. She cares, warms and breathes the fullness of life, that she can therefore also birth in many different ways, like for instance by listening to the way her hair is stroked by the wind, deducting the winds wisdom from it and sharing that with others. Human females are not only the Devine Feminine as a soul in their pod with their True Twin Flame, they are also having the female energy spot in their individual energy system with a connection point in their body, just like a masculine one. Otherwise they would drown in their ocean of emotions and oneness.

Women have just like men a need for the power of awakening that will guide them to the heavens from the earth: a solid ground to grow from, a leadership starting point, a staff to be able to lead a daily life. Both are in continual co-creation. We see women after eons of suppression toss themselves again in a new way of the emotional ocean as a attempt to stand up. And that is allowed, however it is not balanced – and we are here to guide you towards the final operation table of transformation that will prepare you for your final jacket of Heaven on Earth.

We want to invite you to contemplate what this means for you: being a student of life as the highest deed of womanhood. A student of the Divine guidance that awakens you every new moment to the Now. What does it mean to you to open for playing the role in the New Earth that rightfully belongs to you? This is how you can find your wisdom and your balance and go before your peers and those that come after you to Heaven. Ahead of many men, if that perspective brings you joy, but also following many, and eventually with your True Twin Flame alone: a true soul related equilibrium with Source.

The female principle is the rock bottom for sexuality and abundance. It is present in the depth of God and of Nature. She is worthy of devotion with the highest respect and has the honor to share her awakened moments with her Divine Masculine Twin Flame. Both energies help each other eternally to become even greater and greater and get higher energy results that will manifest down into the physical in so many beautiful forms...

7 The power of transformation

Being stuck with your feet in a swamp is a common experience on your inner journey of innovation. This means that you do not fully receive the powerful soul energy of eternal life (spread over more lives, or: in life and in death, or: eternal soul life plainly and without descriptive interpretation, which is the Truth). This power is present as the yellow speckled dark blue night sky, the sweet candles flickering in the far sky. This power is flowing through your feet, legs, pelvis when you would give it free range. It will wash you from that place, clean from everything that does not serve you. It will renew you in times of reconsideration and transformation – as well as during every single sleeping night. When you during the day, sit or walk, for your job, (house) work, and mission, then it carries you from underneath upwards, forming the basic energy that will reach till your navel measured from the ground up.

All too often, we occupy this field from floor to navel by the swamp of collected remnants of happenings, thoughts, family patterns and more that we collected consciously or unconsciously: the shells of festive experiences and the remains of processed trauma. That's when you don't feel your feet. Je do not stand firm. Je cannot essentially stand on your own feet, although you are societally and socially seen very far evolved.

This is what the Satan experiment does with humans, it causes the so called darkness, that you carry with you, this shadow world, unbeknownst to you. This is being jailed in the addiction of revering the wrong God, or: not-god. The one of materialism, of wanting to be understood and accepted, of wanting to have and of thinking that you can simply take when you are in need. This is where sweeping-under-the-rug of greed and neediness resides.

There is nothing wrong with having needs and functioning well societally is a wonderful sign of all collective efforts to build something fit for living together. But being truthfully free, in your roots, and standing on your own feet spiritually speaking, is not that. Needs are here to answer yourself and societally functioning feels natural and loving from a place of free leg space. But do not try to tear away the ankle shackles of Satans experiment with force. Experience the feelings that you have them fully, and process your emotions. Live the fact that this is how life brought you in at first to such a degree, that it transforms.

8 From stone to crystal in the Heart dimension

The earth is in transition and can be helped greatly by your participation in that transition. This transformation on earth in the bigger scale, finds its equal in your personal development, where you can let the transformation fully in. Your personal transformation means to live through and digest everything you are currently in, every energy you attracted through your actions and circumstances in all dimensions. Digesting your entire field means a total acceptance of your place in the whole and transmuting the mountain of garbage you are completely surrounded by until head level – to the degree you will find only diamond in your hands in the end.

Crystals can help you certainly in transforming this entire earth transformation including your own part, because they can clean your individual chakra's as well as the deeper layers of the earth, where crystals placed into that field can also communicate with each other – as crystals are very intelligent life forms actually that can store and communicate big amounts of information. Information in a crystal form can purify other forms by means of their sheer purity, so that unharmonious patterns can be rectified. That is how the field of unconditional love can be restored on all levels: the personal as the energy in and aura around the body, the earth level as the inner earth energies and the layer of energy around the earth's surface.

The transition of the earth is – except from being a natural given – also a deep social change in that it touches how people live together and co-create. This is how economical systems will shift as well and they will be given back to the people themselves so they can autonomously co-create instead of all economical power being in the hand of a “happy” few that are not able to reside in a Heart space while doing their jobs. This is how new waves of migration will occur for pleasant and unpleasant reasons, and these waves will refresh the social cohesion in earth areas any way and make them open for new forms of interaction and organization. Old ideals and social behavior will alter; friends, acquaintances and family will form themselves differently under the pressure of inner peace coming from the Heart. Many love bonds will fall apart before Twin Flames will find their way to a new kind of marriage.

You have seen this transition for some years already and it will go on many years to come: people are indeed being taken in by this one by one – and our animals too for that matter as nothing is excluded. Extraterrestrial influence is also within the equation although not everyone is aware of this, which can alter easily also in the future, for it to become widely known. This is time of speeding up of changes and deepening too and this period will take some years. You can catch the wave now and move along with it or resist and be left behind in an old earth version in a way.

At the earth's and extraterrestrial life as well, is in essence a hologram in a never ending energy space on a very high frequency. The nature of a hologram is that it is a free moving phenomenon and has an ever transforming power that is free of the laws we think are natural to earth such as gravity. At this moment the hologram of the Heart is in the works so Heaven on Earth can indeed be established. You are invited to meet yourself and others within that space and experience it for yourself.

9 Co-creation light as a feather

In the multi dimensional earth that is now, where the heart takes central stage, with soul and God, there is justice – and who did not desire this for their entire life. Who did not feel from their early childhood on, the urge to help the poor and fragile and is upset that the rich and famous have so much power they seemingly do little with it that is truly and lasting good for bigger groups so they can better their life experiences. In the earth of separation consciousness you went out to work on that and fight for it, as a movement of protest or an idealist idea. But in Heaven on Earth only this becomes true on the peaceful energy level of real life.

With that, you let many old methods behind that you knew, to work on inner peace that becomes outer without protest or ideal. The awareness is perhaps temporarily correct, as a first recognition of your reality before processing: injustice. But the truly effective tools exist on quite another level than where the problems are representing at first sight. Justice is not achievable in the worldly terms, or in any way: not immediately. The tools to get to Heavenly Justice, holistic fairness, are however in existence. They are ancient and reverend. They are translated to the present day by Masters connecting to the Master Christ.

They are connected to the coming together of the Divine Feminine and the Divine Masculine physical expression of the one soul unit in Twin Flame Union: each hold 100% of the energy of the opposite gravity; together they form a complementary whole. That is where a feather light co-creation happens, between both. This results in truly fresh ideas that are on the leading edge of innovation of any topic. Accept the clouds of love energy that are springing off this soul connection you have as the groundwork for creation, and feel how they when ripened desire to float further to the world to people and situations in need.

The power of co-creation in the heart space is enormous and the effectivity is immediate. It is also a subtle area of action of the personality in the unconnected ego sense because when it sees how powerful this is, it wants to take over there to play roles in the negative sense, as masks and sham display, but this can be taken out when you acknowledge how coarse the ego makes what began so sensitive. Stay in the featherlight feeling instead. You indeed could imagine the heart creative process best as a feather moving air.

The subtle movement of air is what you truly desire, and after you've had some life experience to see what kind of values you have for your Union, you can connect this invisible and automatic creative process to a higher level together with it and be swept up by it safely in a source connected and grounded way. It carries you behind the curtains of life to have a peak at timeless Truth. The energy truth you were upset by as a child and that you studied as a student, and percolated as a spiritual seeker, now falls into place in a transformed manner because your perception changed and your ability to create that higher quality is birthed in you.

This is true Magic and pure Source trust.

10 Stopping identification

A great deal of magic lies within the faith and trust that you are already there, that manifestation is already a state of being that is present. This is what you have manifested right now and you are a part of that with your body, emotions, mind. You are the manifestation that you are looking for and the female and male energy balance is sealed within that the way you have created it for yourself at this point.

Look around you, see your body, feelings and thoughts as part of your surroundings and get a scope of what you created. What is thus your zero point? How you communicate: your creation. How does someone else answer you: made by your hand alone. How your money flows: your life artistry. How do you feel at home with yourself: a unique opportunity to see how you are attuned to your own self-creation.

This is how we get to stand fully on the point of being the Creator of You. Feel yourself to that place fully for a moment and see how everything becomes your environment seen from your soul. At first, you identified with some or all of the things. But now you see yourself as part of the surroundings and you see from the soul. Of course, this is not your daily life experience, but in a meditative moment like this, things become clear. Energy is the bridge between the soul and the forms in the daily life.

This bridge can be sensitively entered by you in this moment. And when you do so, you will become aware of the creation you made from the empowered position of the creator. The more you can come close to this in your experience, the more honest you can see how masculine and feminine energy work together in your body and life too: do they co-create or are they in a constant war? How would a collaboration look? That is creation by visualization.

The co-creation between the masculine and the feminine in you - and therefore in the world and between people - can be an eternal spiral, can become expressed in one single breath of a moment, can be as two hands folded devoutly together as a hermaphrodite as a sexual metaphor. Honor what you are receiving in there no matter what it looks like, even when they are two circles that stand alone and that have seemingly nothing to do with one another: accept that as the temporary status quo. Inner peace is a state of being that starts with what is and having no resistance to it.

Honesty is important here. Emotional honesty is only the start: clarity about which reactions you have towards the situation as is. Underneath your reactions are your personal feelings, that you will have from one of the two positions of the hermaphrodite: the one will feel things about the second and the second about the one. Underneath those personal feelings lies the feeling, the joint underground from where everything and situations arise (especially the same when One System of Consciousness as True Twin Flames). And then there is the Source that feeds this soft energetic feeling at all times.

Honesty shows on all those layers how it is right now and you can go through the state of being by patience. By introducing patience into the moment, you go beyond the ego when you self inquire. You learn more about the truth of the situation, for the goal of self research, and for creating. Working through what you have created, makes that you can let it go to the degree that is needed for that one magical reality that is possible from here: one in which co-creation is present as the most passionate sensual and intimate encounter and that needs no additional thoughts to imagine it into being.

11 The great traverse

You are on your way to the other shore of the soul when you surrender to the Now. You do not know your destination, but you know that more peace, freedom and value is to be found further along the ocean. The boatman pushes the shore away from him and there you go, together with your luggage. On your way to the eternal Now and who you are in there. To how the earth will be in that place and what co-creation might entail. On your way with your luggage on board.

You take yourself to every place and in that sense also your thoughts and behavior patterns, your desires and pains that have not yet been processed. However it may be more full of life over there, you will still be and have yourself when arrived. Only by voluntarily being open to changes within yourself to work fully through, you will be able to transform yourself. You will need to open these pains one by one patiently, you will be able to heal them by living through them and then letting them go. It is not your journey towards the promised land that suddenly makes you whole; you will need to consciously work through whatever arises.

However you can be sure you are on your way when you set that intention deliberately with taking into account your honest assessment of your masculine and feminine energies and how they play out in the bigger layer of the Union too. When you are honest and true in your desire for the inspiration to become whole. This, once contacted, will seep through in all your life's corners. And aren't we all on this journey today, on the earth, in some way or another: to a new earth in which co-creation from the heart becomes much more normal; however do not be mistaken, the spiritual Path that leads you there is not one of "seeing all are on it and it will go by itself": it requires your individual going deeper and takes effort. In Truth also, not many have arrived.

You are now being realigned to a new field, a new force, an innovative inspiration voice. You go from underlying motivational structures that will inspire you every day again in a story line, to an inspired action driven state of being without needing any story. The one is not better or worse than the other. It is better to see both shores as connected when you desire to make the traverse last until it is all cleared up and sorted out for you individually and collectively too.

12 From value to becoming true

When you truthfully enter inner transformation, and let it therefore come into your cells and daily life, developments can go quickly and be striking in a way that you previously only saw as a fairytale however it touched your deepest feelings, desires and truths.

All theory about how to transform and manifest, and all energy roads and energy healings that you can go through, can only start to mean anything for you and the new earth, when you let it touch you in your human existence, in your actions and your expressions, in what you say and how you communicate.

When you are ready to get vulnerable with your Source, your soul, yourself, and others, then things can go fast. So fast we can be unconsciously afraid of this! Changes and manifestations arriving in multitude... Do not underestimate how much we desire to close that door again, especially since society so often inspires us to close that door of vulnerability again.

But try a step in that direction and see how the universe answers in 1111-fold. Feel closed-off again and understand yourself, care for yourself. Then when ready, open again. The Master Magician assists you in this time and age.

Suddenly the potential results become ginormous, yet there is a feeling of focus on that one specific thing that is valuable for only you. You will find your way step by step. Keep being prepared to open and close and open again.

The Master Magician is only finished assisting you when you are able to look in fulfilled peace and harmony at every aspect of your life. Find wholesomeness in the process and feel thankful for his continual mentoring until your last breath. Amen.

Co-creation and coaching will come into being from simultaneously being equal with your fellow path travelers as well as taking turns in leading in duo's to go deeper in the topics established. Feeling them out together (co-creation), while taking turns in speaking in a guiding sense for both (leading), makes Creative Leadership tangible.

The actual material provided to feel out to make Creative Leadership able to be experienced, is a lot. The ambition is therefore, to establish a selection of students to go deeper in this material soon, and start an avenue to go deeper with these texts as guidance, a Creative Leadership (branch of the) School. If that feels for you, you can already indicate that.

Workbook

The values of Creative Leadership can be experienced in the following assignments.

- 1 Letting go to come into your Bloom in a natural way

Read a piece of the book 'A Course In Miracles', selected by the #ACIM oracle

<https://acourseinmiraclesnow.com/#acim>

Write 10 minutes about what it means to you and how it refers to 1

- 2 Prosperity in the Moment

Meditate and find the wealth that is already here, do the Reset Meditation (in the Starter Kit

<https://www.creativeuniverse.earth/starterkit>) and Reset Recalibration

<https://businesscreativity.bandcamp.com/audio>

- 3 Surrender to the Bigger Whole

Whats your project? How does it fit in Creative Universe? How does it fit in your Union? What could it mean to surrender to it?

- 4 Insight in what does not Work and letting that go

How things work; how you work best Creative ID; what does not work in general; what does not work for you list

- 5 Understanding for myself and in that way also for others

Work in duo's, take one topic of the 7 Graces of Source, read it and talk about it together, feel it through together, reflect on if you understand the topic in yourself and in the other

- 6 Compassion in action so that your work contributes to the love of others

Work in duo's, take a topic from the 12, talk about how it contributes to compassion, discuss how you could do something in your own work and mission that allows the same kind of qualities in for the client

- 7 Love for your Self

Work in duo's, take a topic from the 15, talk about how it contributes to soul self love, which is also Twin Flame spirit self love

- 8 Focus on the work that will bring love for the long term

Work in duo's, speak on your mission, how does it contribute to eternal perspective of love

- 9 Silence the inner so that you amend to the inside and towards the other

Work in duo's, be silent together and feel the energy, in what place of the 9 energy points do you experience the most energetic interaction

- 10 Share from the moment without passing yourself

Work in duo's, can you let the energy of 9 into yourself fully, first, from source out, then see if it also wants to flow over to the other

- 11 Bearing fruit from a real growth and giving space for that

What comes up as an action point

- 12 Being yourself in all Circumstances

How do you feel about taking that action and making real everything that it entails in the bigger whole?

EXTRA

Is there an upset? Do a KEY together for each, the other guides you through

Create something together: either help each other in their creation of art, project, business, entrepreneurship, or do a project together, or both
