Chapter 11 Anchored Flowering Golden Flow

This state of being means your energy is healed and balanced enough so that it's totality is available to you to create your life as a blooming whole. And because energy is represented in the material world by your money, it is about your financial life just as much. Money gets in another and a healed attunement when you are realizing that it's Source's money, Gods money, the Universe's money, Divine Money. That seems like a whole world mentioned in only a few lines; it's a lot but it's the truth said in short. The topics of energy and money are mentioned in this order for a reason: you gotta start at feeling good in your energy, not at money. Feeling good is the foundational inner work that needs to be done.

When you follow this order of creating your abundance, first your energy then your money, then you will see that you will arrive at a slightly different kind of money in a way. This I call Soul Money: the numbers that are connected to the spiritually correct flow of affairs, however we can always allow for a period of transitional time in which we don't need to reject any monetary opportunity that comes our way or is already present. What is more, we can when we have arrived at the healed vibration also allow all opportunities in, but the point is that they will have changed because you have changed. And for sure, being in the receiving mode is part of how to be this and do this. Spiritual value coupled with psychological sanity counts in money business (too), it is worth money as well. So when you've arrived, you can expect and ask more!

Money moralism is not healthy, bc it means without the value of soul, only flat numbers and then being moralist about that, that you are going to be coerced to pay in a narcissistic way: it does not come from an abundant place. Money moralism for males may be around being strict on payments and the deadlines of it, of huge growth that is demanded; for females it can mean being moralist about that you need to deserve it, which can go as far as that you need to deserve the most basic of necessities that a human being because they have a body need, basically neglecting your basic needs because it is morally good.

I always have been indoctrinated with the idea you've gotta deserve the big money by some sort of immense sacrifice in doing endless physical work you don't like with little reward or self esteem - and otherwise you were playing unfair. But thats not true at all; it's when you do the inner work for it that you deserve it only. That is not to say that when having done the inner work, you start doing your Mission Business and it magically wouldn't involve lots of action and work that needs to be done every day: it still would. Your Mission Business is however a manifestation of your state of being that came into existence as a result of your inner work that lead to you having completed the journey. Then it sprouts forth, it's born through you, it arises out of your souls presence. That is the effortless foundation the work is then based upon.

Money manipulation is what happens a lot of the time, when we are not connected to this yet. Trying to be fair and equal, can be manipulation. Think about giving your children equal money but they are not the same, they need different things because of who they inherently are, and it thus excludes relationship. I feel the exclusion of relationship is pretty much the foundation of what manipulation really is. That's what the examples mentioned before were also about. Anything that lacks relationship, can not be an integral whole with your state of being of Anchored Flowering Golden Flow: your financial life, your energy body, your daily life, your work life... Relationship implies also that you cannot be a victim of the economy, that expresses itself in for instance being angry at rich people or the system, or contradictorily in rich people complaining as well. Relationship means aligning your money with your actual ascended life, your mission, your Twin Flame Union and that's often really not the case, causing issues.

You instead create an economy with God from your soul out; you create an economy with the Divine within your Union, the Twin Flames, that then extends out to the world and includes others. In a sense this in practice means you shouldn't care anymore about money and getting rich, but you're doing your inner work every day and have a grasp at a high financial goal in your Mission Business at the same time - but its not a running after it, that's why I say stop caring. Of course we want to make sure we have a basic income of some sort, or a deal, so that we can have it for 10 months in the future or something, so that we can indeed stop caring for bare survival and focus on what we really want to do in relationship. The point is we do it as if we would always want to do it, also when it would not give money as a result: unconditionally.

The most important thing I've learned about money in recent years is that a person may receive a love amount of money to live in self-respect, and that rules regarding taxes, loans, business, regulations, etc. may be combined with that as best as possible, in that order. Every money gap can be bridged by self-love; choose yourself first and then rules without necessarily making it illegal. To get this to work, you can do preparatory work.

Preparation for money:

- make a list of what you'd like to buy and divide them in strict needs and what your heart goes out to, to get a grasp on what it is not to moralize
- make an overview of your home life's in and out
- make an overview of your businesses in and out
- what would you like to invest in?
- what can you collect and give away from your possessions to make space?
- what can you let in that costs no money and is on your lists?
- what can you do with your time so you can make come true some of your lists (like you could do some items of your list with diy when you invest money in watching instruction vids and execute it yourself yet is that time worth it compared to spending the money it would cost to let someone else do it / make it)
- what can you do for yourself already just like that to bring yourself closer to your desired lifestyle and well-feeling that does not require you to have money? can you schedule that in for yourself for the coming time, then do so
- to prepare for an independent money life (entrepreneurial whether you are directly needing or wanting a full fledged tax paying business, already have one or can and like to gradually prep this on the base of your true life's mission), what do you feel you need for that? what of that can you already give yourself / do for yourself just like that would prep yourself to receive the money stream without much effort or time or money, or with a money effort and time arrangement that feels like a good investment for you (such as buying a business book for a couple tens of euro is worth it plus investing 6 hours per week spread out over a couple weekdays scheduled in, so that I can read it and implement what it says, the coming 4 months, or something of that

- nature)
- start a list of to sell products and services and price them, let this mature on your desk so you'll get used to it and adjust where necessary in your process
 - everyone has certain possibilities to invest in becoming a prepped vessel for an independent money life, prepping for a bigger investment in learning business is not only for fortunate elite because you can seek out a sponsor, make use of a retirement saving, team up with a business partner that brings in money, take a small weekend job for the coming time to save up for it, reallocate your household spending for it
 - what more can you arrange to make life a prepped vessel for an independent money life:
 - do you need to have your kids watched over or even educated, who will you ask, what does that cost, where does the money come from, how will you make the money back and so on, when you will work on your business for a specific set of time frames;
 - what time frames do you want to develop for your business, find them, experiment with them, what do you feel comfortable with;
 - what spatial arrangement do you need and execute them, do you need to empty and decorate a room in your house for your business or for your meditation or both, what equipment do you need in your newly made office or silent room and where does it come from, do you need new house rules for your house mates and how will you make them known
 - there are for an independent money life on entrepreneurial base, always some money topics we don't like such as taxation systems, how are you going to handle them? hire an accountant, what will that cost and so on; learn now so I am on top of it anyway and how will I learn this, is there a course or an information gathering at the tax office
 - how will I protect my starting phase when everything is still vulnerable and I need to be creative in some ways and how do I protect myself against unwanted criticism in the content and in the management atmosphere (say you are starting with some small services that you have not yet applied the entire bombardment of the taxation system on, because you start small and grow gradually and you foresee this, and therefore your chosen strategy is exactly this yet there comes some knight of high morals to your door to complain about your tax evasion of 2 euro per week or something, how will you prevent becoming insecure from such things that potentially can happen)
 - prioritize what you have noted at the questions above, make a fresh list for it
