

Christ Masters Speak

2 The message

Christ Masters

It cannot be stressed enough that I actually worked with them and still do in spirit. And also that Masters and religions are not politic, heck not even social although it translates into the social world. If you can't understand that, you're unable to value the contents of this book.

I have witnessed people compare what I proclaim with having read a book, which is what they did and it was so inspirational, brought truly new ideas about the nature of who Jesus Christ (for instance) really was. That is beautiful in itself, but this is not what we are speaking of here. Also, we are not speaking of a mystic that has had a vision in a deeper meditational state. We're not even about a student of a or more Christ Master(s), such as Jesus' 12 apostles were, the well-known group of intimate students he collected around him and that were instrumental of carrying on the teaching and message to new communities and times.

Over time and through very many inner and outer processes that had been incited by the meeting story I already relayed, it was revealed to me that it is more like being Paul to Jesus in his spiritual meeting and coming forward as a teacher afterwards. But also a bit like being John the Baptist to Jesus in the fact that it is about pointing out who the current Christ really is and meeting him so an exchange can take place that makes everything work out just like John baptized Jesus. And it was also a bit like being a classic apostle of Jesus such as Peter or John in that it was about meeting the Christ Master in a normal physical way, just like human beings do that have a relationship and communicate with one another, together being in the same house, exchanging physical gestures and then going to mealtime.

The kind of Christ Master(s) we are speaking of is not Jesus per se however he is spiritually guiding the one(s) I met, worked with, had a spiritual exchange with. I know Jesus is the one that is really the famous one at this time for most and that is fine. Many will think that by uttering the word Christ it is automatically about Jesus, the only one they know that is referred to with this word. People may think about the Christian churches, maybe their buildings, role in current society, their history, perhaps their flaws or scandals. But the word Christ actually means the anointed one, in other words the one that knows of Divine Truth, the one that is at that level of consciousness where it is all about the soul. This in essence is everyone that reaches that; but there are those that are specialized in and known for it: the Christ Masters.

Jesus is a well-known example of this group for sure. He was clearly send to enlighten primarily the western world of our times of the largely untapped possibilities of consciousness in humankind. However according to himself he was simply send to transform the culture in which he grew up, the jewish one in the Middle East. Or perhaps we should say the jewish religion, to bring it to life again in the presence of the One True God. Every religion should be brought to life inside the mind for it to be having a correct working on the human being; every thought system that is. There needs to be made a portal inside your human capacities that one walks through to the other side, the Divine side, to learn who and what one really is in the presence of Truth. That's the whole point of any system or teaching or esoteric school, also mine, in my nineteenth century life that is currently still around or in this one in which we already have the start of a school by now as well.

Every true spiritual school should be a rebirth of the eternal mystery school present in the Divine World continually. It needs to be a temporary opening in the material world of a portal into the deeper ever present school, made possible through a true spiritual teacher that has reached the actual consciousness state and has received the irreversible initiation to actually do so.

Christ Masters are one type that is able when they have done the inner work inside themselves first. This is their purpose and what they are known for. They come in times of the development of the unfolding universe where there is a request for a new leading edge for people to follow so they can develop in a bigger capacity. Jesus was there for the opening of a new piece that God desired to have opened up for people of these times. But there were more, on other times, for complementary purposes; Gods Wisdom and Freedom spreading throughout the universe more and more.

Jesus came to teach true compassion, that is only here to acknowledge the soul and not the ego. Other Christ Masters came to teach surrender for instance, which was big for Mohammed. Often, they do not even come up with original teachings, they are timeless themes but brought in a way fit to be understood by certain cultures at certain times. They popularize them or made them ultimately dramatic so the setting becomes engraved in our collective unconscious as an archetype or a meme, influencing generations of followers over many national boundaries because of the strength of their themes chosen - or chosen for them by God that could be said to have a certain agenda in when certain strategies will be rolled out where so that His Light and Truth will be seen by those in these societies that it needs to reach for a good working of what God deems that the time is right for.

I know, this starts to sound like salvation history, a story line that unfolds in which the motivations and desired actions will be presented that please god and will guarantee souls to be acknowledged in a positive way by God. This is a story, for sure, but human beings learn by telling stories already since the very beginning of time. It is a universal educational strategy we are speaking of here. Anyone that desires to bring anything across uses storylines!

In that sense, the Christ Masters teach through very normal, small physical human action, placed in a daily life somewhere on earth, with neighbors, groceries and a yearly community party. Normal stuff, is what is meant. But something particular about their life and teaching will come out to have been crucial, pivotal, for most, and this is food for the formation of the Christ Theatre that ultimately is played in our collective unconscious. Or at least of those that are in the system, in the know, at first, a place from where it spreads out far and wide as stories, as theatre.

Even though Christ Masters live normal human lives while teaching the presence of that actually everything real is God, they are lead from Gods meta space behind the scenes, to work together, wherever they are in time, so that the working of what they are supposed to bring across is guaranteed and has the most power. It's an orchestration that makes that Gods presence will be heard as a song of unbelievable beauty - and you are the designated audience. Hearing was never more sacred and automatic when connected to the right frequency where the original song is being sung.

My work in the nineteenth century meant that I already brought forward the deeper existing mystery school back then - that exists like the mycelium under the ground, popping up its mushrooms when it is time - with erecting an organization to study and publishing books that give impressions of what it really is all about. In a sense, I always do so, even though these remnants still exist physically on earth as it is from more of my incarnations in other forms. The nineteenth century organization is still in function and the books are still on the bookshelves around the world, read by students faithfully. Architectural structures, works of art, compositions of music, have all been created on the base of it and these are still around and most often indicated as important cultural heritage.

For sure I indicated that we are moving into a new period of spiritual (or salvific) history but this has been taken out of proportion in ways that perhaps did not 100% align in generations after my death in London towards the end of the century - and my Twin Flames' too mere moths afterwards because our mission was finished for that moment in time. Honestly, much has been taken out of context, seeing looking back that the twentieth century has been focussed on leaving traditional spiritual resources and using new kinds of relatively less structured information to take its place, for which they used mine, but fantasized around it because the source connection had been lost.

Apparently, they need me as the anchor, having the direct connection with the ascended Masters as well, that live the wisdom it is all about that can be integrated into your beingness and serve as the foundation to form your life in the ultimate way, how you are meant as a soul, making the best contribution to the world around you from that place automatically. It is logic one needs to actual anchor, but history has shown this truth in practice, is what I mean.

This even comprised of accusations to be the devils henchman and having inspired murderous dictators decades after my death to their heinous crimes - yeah, no I didn't because that is not how reality works. You can take every piece of information and apply them to and with the ego, which is the devil in the internal vision. That's not something that is in any sort of way my responsibility, rather it is that of the person involved themselves. That's the whole point of spiritual development through Divine Wisdom (theosophy): it puts you at the central point of the experiential reality and makes you responsible for your connection to Truth in that position - or not. Connected or not, that is the question!

We did get a whole set of new Christ Masters for this time, within decades after I died away from that still well-known life, that are currently at their new incarnation already as well, and I foresee they will return some more in the future to make their presence known real penetratingly so their mission to spread their particular and ultimate contribution to salvation history, to what people should learn at this time, will spread well and thoroughly.

The 20th century had hardly started when three children were born in a rural Portuguese village, coming from two families that were bound by blood, one of their parents being siblings of one another. They were predestined to give the world a message from their very humble place of socio-economics and age (being children), learn how to be surrendered to God themselves, and then mostly fade out again. Their story is well-known within the Catholic Church, less so outside of that context, however the height of their story was a nature miracle that far surpassed what that seems to imply to your average cultural person.

Francisco, Jacinta and Lucia were visited by archangel Michael that initiated them into the art of connecting to God directly, and then the following year by Divine Mother in the form of Mother Mary in her light body, 6 moths long every month on the thirteenth at noon exact coming out of Heaven the way Christ also visited me. They were little shepherds, getting that role from their parents that lived as dirt poor, deeply catholic rural farmers, using every resource they had to make a living, which included giving their children simple but necessary tasks. They were able to communicate with Mary in her appearances and she told them certain messages, among which secrets about the inner workings of the church and salvation history: the famous Third Secret of Fatima is still surrounded with question marks in the experience of many catholics, however it is at closer inspection pretty clear at this time (in 2025). The story spread and more and more people began to join them every month, being present when the appearance took place, the crowd swelling to circa 70.000 at the last appearance when the so called. Miracle of the Sun took place: probably a comet entering the atmosphere, but how did Lucia know the exact day and time of this happening? And that's how the miracle is made clear: Mary told her and it came to pass and in such a drastic way that tens of thousands thought the end of world was happening to them live.

Francisco and Jacinta, under ten years old at the high point of happenings, died a couple years afterwards in an epidemic influenza, while Lucia lived on as a cloistered nun, was silenced and possibly killed by the church a couple decades later. The message, the third secret in particular, was not received with enthusiasm, you have to understand. The children were the bringers of the news of how the church would self destruct and step away from the very faith they were there to guard and guide, if they would not publicly and as one body pronounce themselves to be against atheism, socialism, communism or however this way of thinking that excludes the Source of everything and all can be called (it is known under many names), doing what the church has taught their believers for centuries at that point: to pray for your enemies. The official and full prayer for the enemy did not occur to this day, even when Divine Mother gave clear and concrete instruction that did not leave anything to fantasy: Russia needed to be consecrated as a nation by the pope with the assistance of all the bishops and if not, worldwide chaos and desperation would break out. This was outside of what the then already risen to the top churchmen would want to do and it stayed that way, with this circle of high placed men that were topping the hierarchy off with a false church even though many far below in the pyramid were still genuinely faithful.

All three of them returned by now, two in the early eighties (Jacinta, Francesco, in that order) and one in the twenty twenties (Lucia), building further on their mission of steering the true faith in a direction that is still fruitful, which meant to relate the point of leadership, from Fatima where it was already gone to from the early twentieth century out, towards themselves, starting a new church as it were and grounding it on earth, in the world, the new world even: a place where they feel at home this time around.

Divine Mother enlightened me about what happened in the last century and made me meet them in this incarnation, to be able to relay the news to you that yes here we are now, in salvific history, this is what's happening - and it's not what people have thought after I died in 1891, sometimes looking for a child yes that even became a well-known teacher in his own right, but the real things had apparently been needed to be pointed out by me myself again, anchoring the Truth with Manifested results.

The Christ Masters of our time promote mind training to be able to focus on the Divine Truth, and while they did that through praying the Rosary in their short early twentieth century life, now they advise a shortcut to it through the steps that comes down to the KEY tool (which comes down to the same thing as the Rosary!), point out that the Truth of mind training is written down in a helpful course form in 'A Course Of Miracles', known as ACIM and ask us to receive their literal vibration in our hearts so the mind transformation is done efficiently and effectively, simply and short, really without fuss, so it can be simply the basis of life that then commences inside of it (instead of outside: separation consciousness).

In fact mind training, a way to overcome the ego and live at soul level (where Union resides) would be more easy these days, as the Devil experiment is over around this time. The Devil had been given 1000 years of reign after which Christ would return, that is to say first Christ was allowed reign for 1000 years, then the Devil was allowed reign for 1000 years, now Christ returned in them because they are what everyone was waiting for as they are the main Christ Masters of all times, and the Golden Age of peace commences, no matter the brand of Second Coming teaching that is sold to you through your church, belief or books. Listen, I do not say this because I read a book or have an idea; I do because I have experienced it in my own body, worked with them in real life and can nothing else then conclude this is what it is, after 15 years of thinking critically about it since it had become clear that this was a chapter of my current life and it started to move - and don't forget I am academically trained.

In practice however, mind training is often experienced as challenging because one has not yet in that particular place let go of the ego, that is the Devil on an individual and inner level.

At the start of the twentieth century it seemed to have been more logic - from a traditional standpoint - for them to have said that people should keep on going to mass instead of, or in co-creation with, praying the Rosary; after all this is what church focusses on most in the official kind of avenues. Mass: mind transformation condensed into a focus exercise, open the heart and accepting Gods vibration in through the inner senses and being spiritually fed in that way, while also being actually fed through the fact that bread and wine are involved. The point is that the church invalidated their own mass; mass would be ended soon while the Rosary would not be ended before individuals would stop saying it.

Traditional, non-invalid masses are still said to day, but they are rare. There is a paradox in the traditional mass that makes sure you go to the inner place God wants you to for being spiritually fed: you can't let the consciousness in the material but that's what they teach, that God came into bread and wine; you can't let people marry each other inside a true Divine Union proclaimed in mass that are not Twin Flames but that's what they teach, that God declared you One body. They make holy what is not holy in reality through mass, but the connection between material world and consciousness is therewith made and this does bring you into a correct surrender experience that does produce the state Christ means however it is not yet connected with the exactly correct material. The correct bread and wine is your body and blood but that is actually the real essence of what the you is that is blood and flesh and that is being the Son of God, the Union Consciousness, that is needing to be believed in so strongly that it IS everything you are and have and act with and feel every moment as if it were your flesh and blood while you don't really take notice of your flesh and blood; the correct marriage partner is the Twin Flame that is already one with you inside the Union Consciousness that it is really about. The church brought everything really close by, if you'd literally and faithfully believed it even though it was not possible as presented; the mere act of the necessity of belief made you jump to the correct consciousness - and that is what it was about so it worked. Now we can also do it for real and a mass is not necessarily needed but a Twin Flame work with Union Consciousness is, because many are still stranded in the Devil experiment, they have not yet let the Devil be bound by the Christ Masters on earth now.

You need to have this belief beyond the comprehensible to have the mind shift that is needed. But we can also correct it to completion and include the Twin Flame: this is what we do now, a new solution for a new time. Because it also needs to be translated again for the present time, if not for present day society then certainly for the new time after the Devil experiment is over, the new Golden Age. The problem is that the new church top that is false, has ideas that could potentially sorta sound right in this alley such as that all cultures and religions are able to get to the end goal of mind transformation, and that homosexuals are also okay. But it is in a different way that it is meant that the new translation needs to be made; not in the false church top way because they are basically apostates: atheists masquerading as theists for some perceived ulterior gain.

A strong objection present day western culture will have against church ideas is that it seems to speak of behavioral boundaries that are not fashionable and sin in that it is deeply morally wrong. Now, behavior always plays some role in life, no matter what kind of spirituality you have. The point is to see that the shift in consciousness will give you different behavior in the end too. Starting to correct at the behavioral end of things may not be fruitful in the beginning when you are not yet in the shift of consciousness, but once deeper inside you start to see the relationship between both more clearly; new bounds are being placed between the focus on Union and what that produces in you as concrete results in everyday life. This will in the end automatically be 'the right thing' if you will, because it is connected and where it is not connected, a correction will be extended to you from within. That's a guarantee.

For me, the Truth of the present day Christ Masters is fact, a manifestation of the abstract idea of the Christ that is always true and the latter was and is really my thing, yet it came true: True-true. What is true in principle will also play out in time and among people. What is the Divine vision of Truth will also be how we live as people. Remember Lucia, the little shepherd that survived a couple decades cloistered in, saw the vibrant and real vision of the general occult reality of life in the chapel in Tuy in 1929: on the right the Father above the dove that is the Holy Spirit, above the crucified (subjected to physicality) Son, mass vessel and bread in from of him because they are Him and to His right the words 'grace' and 'misericordia'(referring to the love God has for people even though they may not strictly deserve it when they don't recognize Him, there are basically two kinds of Divine Love: the unconditional love that He exudes to his Son that is the Union Consciousness and the compassion when it is not reciprocated), then on the left, standing, the Mother showing her Heart. Emanating from it the two figures of the Twin Flame, standing next to one another, each in their role towards each other and towards he Divine. Meditate on it for mind training that is far from empty: it forms your beingness into the direction of what you truly are.

Perhaps the Divine Hermaphrodite is not truly a matter of supporting theosophical feminist Satanism, as I've been accused of doing, but instead the very same as the traditional occult teachings corrected for the new Christ Masters time and teaching.

Communication Exercises 1

This book is called Christ Masters Speak for a reason: speaking is the ultimate musical healing art of (love) vibration and (heart) understanding. The true art is going to be to bring the Christ Masters that are about Harmonious Twin Flame Union and your capacity to communicate, especially also online in all present day online forms, together. Not that you'd need to speak about them or be meeting them in itself - however that is a possibility -, it is more about that their flow of energy that wants to spread, needs to connect intimately with yours so you'll be yourself while spreading their light and insight to all places you visit. Your speaking has reached Divine alignment.

Christ Masters are only relevant because you are also a Christ on the inside and that inside is what you truly are. Right now we are at a time in history in which we can not only taste from being the Christ ourselves, but also from being the Union, the Twin Flame Union, in its fullness. This is a unique time and place that – when you really take that on – will be the start of everything that your soulful abundance has in store for you to come forward. Then this abundance can be also a shared experience and it becomes a party.

1.1 Write about who you are as the Christ: your spiritual core of your being human. How do you experience that?

1.2 The Christ is also a child, the inner child. What has your inner child to tell you? What does it want the world to know?

1.3 The Christ is also a mother and a father. What are the messages of both of them for you? Who are you as the mother and of father to yourself and as standing in the world?

The exercises are about communication, which is also social media communication and even business marketing on the base of your genuine self. which means story telling so that you show how remarkable you are (able to be remarked about by third parties so the word spreads about your existence, and the existence of your business, product and/or service of course).

1.4 Communication goes from you to a receiver, who would you like to be the receiver? Write a couple of characteristics of them: are they on Instagram or Facebook, for instance, do they identify mostly as Divine Feminines, are approximately your age give or take 5 years, what kinds of interests do they have?

1.5 Write a possible social media caption (text that goes together with a picture on for instance Facebook and/or Instagram) about the Christ and how it is relevant. Make it max 2200 characters, check it with a character counter in Word or comparable writing software. Divide it into readable paragraphs. Read it over to correct possible mistakes.

1.6 Idem about the inner Christ child. Idem about the Christ parent(s).
