Theory & Workbook

Theory

Creation and creativity are eternally connected. Where the artist creates a work of art from his mind, imagination, ideas, tradition, originality, experiment and assured technique, creation itself passes through any person to fulfill the desires of the Grand Artist that is the Divine. Consciously creating a fulfilling life as a life artist is for everyone that has acknowledged their deep longing for their ultimate life that fits your soul and thus your True and Divine Identity.

The loving fullness of an energetic reality in your daily life, is very sexual in nature. This is how God (universe, Source) means for you your life to be like. Your soulful abundance is right where you are in the fulfillment of your Being and money is a manifestation thereof. This gives you the formula Sex – God – Money: a sort of a triangle of LOVE that you can enter like a gate. Stepping into your GOLD goes through this consciousness door. A couple of ingredients of this reality as meant for you, will be described here, to start with love and end with money.

Love

The great promise of real and everlasting, deep love was laid in your heart from an early age on. And though this may be a true desire, the problem arises when we expect this overwhelming future to be taking place right off the bat as a result of our wanting. Additionally, the real problem arises when we start believing in something with the title of a twin flame relationship or twin soul union to be the perfect representative of this, and our meant-to-be role in this dream romance. The promise of sexuality to be the depth of love is another side note to this story that easily gets the main character in our love stories, sexuality as a theme collecting all other desires in it as a big all containing present that solves all emotions into eternal love.

The point is that this dream is both true and false at the same time, depending on where you are coming from: do you come from the soul frequency it's true; do you come from the hurt personality it's false. That's all there is to say about it, but that's a bit short, therefore we have a longer story for you, all through hell and back, knowing that is what you have gone through in life. The point is that how many things you know, have arranged for yourself, or have gotten from heritage, family or society, when you do not have the love, the frequency of the eternal essence of being, it's just as if you had nothing at all. Gathering this mental, emotional or physical stuff whether gotten for free or worked hard for, is great but not an answer to your true soul desires that are your birthright and surpass the emotional, physical and mental, although it expresses in these realms all you ever envisioned for your soul's perfect life.

Your soul's perfect life is a sexual act. It's the working together of the soul and the personality, it's a co-creation of those powers: the soul penetrating the personal experience in its world and surrounding; the personal experience being receptive for delightful, unexpected experiences that could happen when it allows in an active way for this penetration. Your soul's perfect life resides in a way through an opening, a door to the invisible, and this could be found to exist as a pyramid. In the apex of it, your soul's essence is lying in a sarcophagus ready to be awoken as a fully enlivened multidimensional experience. Your sarcophagus opens slightly and you can sit up, even stand up, and have a look around. A room adorned with the most beautiful sparkling crystals appears to you, and you meet the inner teacher standing there, the gu-ru, the one that leads you from darkness (gu) to light (ru). That's the place where your souls journey begins: the journey to great love and all the other richnesses that come with it.

However you will wake up in your daily circumstances after this experience and say you see something completely different: a nightmare of faults, mistakes, not-enough-ness and distance to anything that seems valuable that just awoke into you in their true essence. You may feel overwhelmed with negativity and you fall victim to the present powers surrounding you, but only when you have denied yourself the full energy that just experienced in your soul shining room that contained it all: the soul love of your life, the partnership from which the world peace mission springs, while you are gaining rich emotional experiences, ideas and material resources. Instead you find the current life circumstances to be very off and unworthy, because you suddenly experience it as a contrasting experience of that which you found as an essential goal for you in life.

You feel trapped. Some guys like you but you don't fancy them and for the sake of passing time and consuming sexual acts you enjoy you engage with them anyway, later finding out it's hard to either get rid of them or get rid of the obsession you got for this particular person that you try to mold into the frequency of your soul love - which doesn't work out because nobody can adjust their frequency under such circumstances meaning when pressured by your expectations of them, if frequency is ever able to be adjusted by willpower alone, because it is steered by the soul instead of willpower. You feel trapped while the fire of the great soul mission and the partnership that belongs to that vision is burning inside of you. It's not easy to get enough space for yourself in that situation to be able to feel this situation as a whole and your soul as being free from that, thus suddenly seeing and realizing you are not trapped at all but the situation of feeling entrapment just creates a great, warm, transformative fire inside of you that fires up the momentum of creation prepping the ground for what you asked for!

The burning of the current circumstances may take a long time, because all the hard work you and your family and other groups you are a part of wanted or unwanted, that came before you, have invested immensely in all the wood bricks that are placed in this world you are born in, living in, brought up in, educated in and trained into by the highest professional ideals and coaching methods. The burning of this current happenings will take a long time only when you are timely focussed instead of in the now - and that is how you can focus away from that victimhood, not by waiting until it is over because it goes on until you are in your coffin and all your remainders are burned to ashes - depending on the customs of your family and society.

Thus: enjoy the burning of the circumstances because it is a great source of warmth and power. Whether you appear to be married to the wrong person when you are unveiled your true souls desires, or you appear to be swept away by many lovers wrongly because the true life idea for your soul is to be with the great soul life partner that matches your vibration so exactly that together you are so big a light that you can help the masses find theirs. Whatever the story is you find yourself in, burning will be your reality when you have once consciously found your now - that has set free a desire that will never really evaporate from your experience and causes a soul steered desire that is in the end bigger then all of the other desires including the wish for the burning to finally stop.

The pyramid, the door to the inner room, functions perfectly in the heat of the fire. In fact, the door opens in it more easily, too! When the door is just only slightly open, you will experience burning your life circumstances very differently: more as a set of waves in an ocean, forever lovingly rocking you as ebb and flow do, as the great mother does. She gives you the feelings of safety and natural worthiness you always longed for - and also need to travel further and closer towards that which you are as a togetherness with all that naturally belongs to you including your mate that will be waiting for you whenever you are ready. Two are always mirroring each others universes, two are equal, two are a true pair, forming a bigger whole, the start of a new co-creational society - while the world is burning. And because the world is burning, two have an important mission to give that burning world a hand when they are close enough to first reach their hands towards each other.

So however you find yourself seemingly alone in your journey in exactly this situation just described, you are two already, both on your parts of the journey until you are both able to reach hands to each other. Understand that it is exactly the longing for the fulfillment of the big love dream that keeps you journeying - and that it never stops unless you left this physical plane temporarily by death. It's always only about aligning yourself in the moment to your souls identity, and bringing it in co-creation with the universe and the best of your current surroundings. Every love union is like that, and the perfection of it surpasses you because you cannot see yet how this life is full of what your soul truly asked for to experience. It's normal to not be able to oversee this completely - although sometimes you think you do! but that could just be quite delusional - and that is in fact one of the great gifts of life, being one big wrapped up present that shows new ways to unfold over time you got rid of another layer of illusion.

One of the big illusions of life is conflict. Yes, there are imbalances in relationships and even in relationship to your great life partner of everlasting divine love. That's because life creates in a physical, emotional and social way with imbalance: growth on all levels comes forth of it. It's only the moment you let it go - having fully experienced it - that you get to a new level of inner peace. It's just a matter of a new gift wrap that is coming off and you have fun in this unveiling process, although tears may be shed because of the seemingly going away of what you know until now, though it may be only fights... All invisible helping powers will always stand right there for you when you broke another veil to wrap you in their loving arms before you see the shiny new gift wrap paper, that's what you can be sure of.

The absolute abolishment of worn out gift wraps can be quite an event - and it is enhanced by alignment of it with universal celestial circumstances and worldly conflicts and group consciousness experiences. Yes, it can be sudden and unexpected, since that is the way to surpass your willpower and payed out plans for the fruition of what is truly important to your essential development, later to be incorporated in your schedules, plans and soul aligned willpower, since working in the physical also needs schedules and focus. Again, imbalances create the need for shifts so don't be afraid of it but silently welcome them and bow your head. Cry if you feel like it, unclutter your space, fast, eat fruit, write a diary or whatever empowers your true soul energy to stay up while your world falls apart.

That's how two come into union. They could bump into each other like planets crashing into each other and hurt is as much a relevant experience as joy, since both are just other ends of the same stick. That's how true wholeness comes into form, however that may be a disappointing perspective to the child that holds the ideal of true and everlasting love as a relationship you are swept away by like the dreamt of parent will bring the child into safety and cuddle it endlessly. Now you know how two in fact come into place: by a crash that will both energize the two as well as create their eventual individual form: a creation process that will go on until your soul chooses to leave this specific plane of existence. A transformation that will bring your inner polarities in another attunement: the individuation on an emotional scale is the focus of that, although not in the way of the studied psychological procedures but in a much more soul guided and organic way.

The deeper background of this is the opening up - again - of the door to the inner room in the apex of the pyramid, that will have to be reinforced every moment, every day, every week, every month and every year by opening to the possibility of receiving a present out of nowhere in your own way. It can be meditation, walking in nature or sitting in a fragrant bath: up to you, as long as you open the door enough for the gift to reach you. The teacher is standing there with a chalice of wisdom and richness in his hand but are you willing to receive? Go to the river, meditate on its shore, able to receive the life giving water every moment - and be vigilant. That's the beginning of co-creation, however we mostly think of it as going to another person and forcing working together... which is the recipe of failure very much when not having quenched your unquenchable thirst by the waters of life first.

In that way, in contrast, your recipe of true essential success comes forth to the foreground and your story gets rewritten completely. Other aspects of your story then previously caught your eye, will seem to be significant now, creating a new reality within your existing one. All your tools will be placed in front of you suddenly - meaning they always were there but you will now see them and acknowledge them. They will form new meaningful conglomerates of tools, libraries of knowledge and methods of healing and you will now be able to recognize them. Using them will fall into place as a natural action that comes organically through you. You don't need to be perfect, you just need to be open for both universal frequency as well as earth reality. Be aware that most will not be on a reality level, although presenting themselves as business experts, spiritual graduates or whatever unlevelled form of knowing - because knowing is not being and an intelligent perspective is nothing like the truth of their own reality. Just like you and your mate have to individually get to reality level too. Manipulation has no place here. Only love. Sexuality as the energetic power of desire brings this all together.

As much as the soul is the spiritual and thus essential source of your life, sexuality is the earthly, realistic and exact counterpart of that. Because sexuality in the broader understanding means the way we live our lives in a safe emotional setting, as the highest expression of the soul in its current circumstances. How do you feel at home? What makes you feel acknowledged? What clothes do you love to feel on your skin? Which foods serve your vitality best? What kind of mate brings you the best personal love experience? What work suits you best? All of this is part of your sexual soul fed nature. The highest love mate is just a part of this organic unfoldment as much as food is. It means to allow yourself to be a sensitively feeling person, creating from the reality of how things feel to you in the light of the truth of experiential energy awareness. Being on the path of co-creational soul mission is the key here. And that journey starts in the alinement with that in this exact moment and only stops when you exchange this plane of existence to the next.

Any theoretical model of how the soul lover has to come to you, is just that: a model that may never fit your unique situation and soul identity. The dream that was laid in your heart is true, but not as a personal goal that has to be achieved in a certain predictive way. That may just be the belief system that holds you back from finding the two the most, because the two only come into existence, meaning in the consciousness of each other, when a free playing space is allowed for. The two may be not what they envisioned for each other at all, on the one hand because their previous life experiences may have led to other belief systems, on the other hand because they may get their full blown shape only after coming together, possible conflict and reentering within their individuated soul state. They may not even be recognizable for each other - thus creating a creative gap space in itself, a void of not knowing, not recognizing consciously. Yes, unconsciously you may be aware years prior, and some are especially sensitive to unconscious signs bubbling up in daily life, but the conscious coming together of the two takes quite another awareness than you previously had trained yourself into nevertheless.

Thus you will see it is not enough to work out your emotional patterns of the past, not enough to acknowledge the signs of the presence of the two such as seeing meaningful numbers, events and nature signs, not enough to understand this and not enough to write your love story in the current Twin Flame Union fashion, not enough to follow universal energy nor your current emotional earth situation. The only answer is to open to the empty room, where the shiny inner teacher appears to you that will lead you if you let him. This answer cannot be given by the soul alone, and not by sexual pleasure in daily life alone as well. It can only be given by the co-creation of soul energy and sexual energy: the great work of life that is and the rhythm of it is entirely designed for you individually, although many meet-ups with others may happen on the way so you will never be alone in this. Let that be of great consolation to the longing lovers instead of a source of unfreedom, conflict and envy.

Some True Twin Flame Advice

The Twin Flame is a natural part of the Authentic Spiritual Journey

When it feels like your personal desire to live with your Ultimate Lover, your unique soul bound Co-Creational Partner, your True Twin Flame as your life partner in all ways, the complementary part of your soul that is the Divine Feminine when you are the Divine Masculine and vice versa, then may it be so and may all Heavens Beings pray for you. It is logical that for such a desire to fully manifest, it is best to gear your mind, energy and practical life towards this to be true, such as: actually opening your inner awareness to come to know who this is and allow them into your physical experience and life, to not take an alternative partner, to not maintain energetic or mind programs that cancel this desire out somehow.

Yes, you are, with them, always at the same so called spiritual level at the same time, and progressing on the spiritual path affects them simultaneously. As they are You on the soul level, yet a complementary You that you do not need to come to your fullness yet is great to experience when you desire this, and also will be experienced when you have come to your individual fullness sufficiently - which may or may not be a lot further down the line of receiving fullness than you like to think, because it is an actual State of Being and not a way of thinking. Because Reality is designed like this, you learn to truly care for yourself and them in the same sensitive way, without pushing nor pulling, but with ultimate respect and perfect understanding, inspired and lead by Source alone.

Being in actual physical contact with the True Twin Flame (or Twin Soul, Highest Divine Complement, Ultimate Co-Creational Partner or whatever name it is known by however it is in energy unique and clear-cut) can bring up great emotional turbulence that, when resolved on the soul level, brings you great relief in exactly those precise places where it was desperately needed already anyway for progression on your spiritual path – and it is even of benefit to the path of both partners. Yet this is not necessarily so or necessary to get to self realization as the ultimate goal - if you will - of spiritual development. Meaning: emotional turbulence is not a sign or an essential ingredient to the True Twin Flame Union, as this can lead to the false attribution of this title to merely disturbing relationships or even more or less well-meant and mediocre relationships.

Turbulence is best seen as a means to be able to come to the place where the True Twin Flame relationship stabilizes from the inside out, a procedure one has to go through when one desires to progress on the spiritual journey any way, when one wants to come to a state of permanent and ultimate feeling good on the layer underneath good-and-bad. And for that working to commence, it in principle does not matter if it is experienced in direct relationship with the True Twin Flame or not; the True Twin Flame will however trigger the most direct and exact details as they are - in a reality where everything always mirrors - the Ultimate Mirror. All-in-all it is thus also correct to say that when one comes to this Ultimate Mirror cleaned fully, there will indeed be no emotional upheaval, however that is another extreme that is not all that realistic either.

Being in nonphysical, energetic, psychic contact in some way, with the True Twin Flame, can bring with it a lot of illusions, because however the sensations may be heartfelt and true, the untamed mind can translate this into many phenomena that lose their sense the further we let them go into interpretations. But when one can come to further stages of the spiritual journey where one can distinguish and know Truth and a healthy dealing with nonphysical energy phenomena, messages and so on, this can be a beautiful Presence that simply is - not more nor less. It is as the smell of the broader soul self, the scent of the complementary part of the entire energy truth one is on the deeper level. In other words: it is necessary to ground in Truth rather than in the physical.

The Twin Flame is, strictly seen, not a stage or a goal in a spiritual journey, as any spiritual path is the path to self realization, which one goes individually, and one experiences the Twin Flame chapter (that was there already the entire journey anyway) on this journey individually in your own way. While it can certainly be said that the Twin Flame will be met on a physical level in the here and now somewhere a little further down the line on this journey, it is a personal preference to desire to have the Twin Flame as life partner and work towards realizing this; it is free will. What is meant here, is this: the True Twin Flame can not be a spiritual goal, as 'goal' and 'spiritual' do not marry well, however the True Twin Flame will absolutely be met (on all levels) when one is on a further reaching stage of the actual, authentic spiritual journey.

The Twin Flame is a phenomenon that is as old as the most ancient times of human life, since it is a soul engrained Source Truth that has to do with the origin of soul creation in groups that have a hand or more of pairs in them. It belongs to the collection of spiritual Truths of Life, the architecture of identity. It is lived by well-known historic-mythological couples such as Krishna and Radha, Jesus and Mary Magdalene, Blavatsky and Judge, and is as template fully available to all for it is your nature without exception. The idea to have the Twin Flame as the life partner could be promoted, but it still remains a personal goal and achievement and as all personal achievements, it can not be said that one or all need to achieve or strive for the same. At the same time, with more and more people consciously on the union consciousness journey, it does not make sense to not include this possibility and make it available. Simultaneously many claim to be here that are not truly there and it also can not be denied that it is (for the lived-through and trained eye) an easy distinction tool to see whether someone has come to the first great plateau of ascension or union consciousness; a place that by most likely will be experienced as far down the road of spiritual development.

This is stated to give a description of the true spiritual journey and the correct placement of the True Twin Flame in it and to avoid endless cycles of all-round exhausting goal-and-disappointment that often can be experienced when one sees it merely as a consecutive dating history or psychological learning curve. In other words: to mend the perception to the needed energy tending and/or mind formation journey instead; a tending and formation journey that is not an unending itch as it does have a resolution when it catches the full harmonization with Source. In the next paragraph, we will have a closer look at the matter, from the standpoint of this state of Harmonious Twin Flame Union.

The Co-Creational Partner having come to full spiritual bloom in your way because you genuinely are in the spiritual journey on that plane where you are in peaceful contact with them in all dimensions.

Harmonious Twin Flame Union is a real and permanent state of Energy and Consciousness Harmonious Twin Flame Union is the coming true of this promise; it is an energy place and mind configuration primarily so you better not hold on to ideas of how it is supposed to look. This is simultaneously the first full and real step in ascension. It is a platform from which union consciousness is harmoniously and naturally at your every day disposal in all life topics. It is union consciousness, ascension and soul love made come true in a realized container that is permanent and peaceful (when it is maintained), however development within this harmonious container continues towards even further steps as one can always grow deeper and deeper.

When you have sufficiently transformed your (conscious) mind (Divine Masculine approach) or (sexual) energy (Divine Feminine approach) (this goes parallel, one could in principle pick one of the two Divine Masculine or Divine Feminine roads), you will eventually fall into the ocean of peace in a way that will definitively be clear to you as having arrived. When on the brink of it, it is just a simple and easy step into peace. However for most the road leading up to that point will for the conditioned mind and emotional personality seem like a long and deep falling into let-go's that are not necessarily desired from that standpoint, accompanied by continual emotional waves that will be always first a move through your resistance and then a move through the remnants, which are two phases that have a distinctive feel to it. This process can take years but not necessarily so as it is the inner result that counts and no time frames can be given out for that as time is an illusion and development individual – which is also a reason to desire a coach.

One of the results is the somewhat odd at first but later on very natural sensation of true co-creation, as your minds and energies will operate in a harmonized way exactly similar yet complementary (so not in the exact same form). True union is a win-win-win with Source, You and your highest co-creational counterpart: your Twin Flame. You will eventually experience a wave of this to take over your life and transform everything in this unionized Truth. You will see the true and full scope of your source level mission from this venture point, experience your true values and see how anchored they are, overview your whole life and all your other lives in one single golden thread and completed puzzle, and be shown the secrets to your birthright abundance on Source level. You will have the curtains fall on the architecture of life and identity on this matter and all other matters that will be relevant to you. You will see that what has bothered you most during your journey to this place, will in an inside-out fashion become your Source related specialism – and the 'you' in this entire paragraph is indeed the duo that is you (only an incredibly very small percentile will truthfully have more than one Twin Flame).

The path to this State of Being will be the same whether one has their desire for this ultimate teacher, friend, partner, lover or one does not have an active desire for this union to be fully realized in their every day life but one is truthfully dedicated to the ascension path in other words the traditional spiritual path and walks it truly and far enough to arrive on the first ascension plateau. Because when one would walk that path, the stage will arrive naturally when one attracts and encounters the True Twin Flame any way and it is only natural for them to stay kind of close by in some sort of way. One could say that the desire to have this person as every day life partner functions as a big trigger to move upwards on this path quickly, and also gives a personal touch to the result you are desiring and a lot of shape and direction to the decisions to be made in your life to make the most out of this in all daily life, familial, business, living and so on ways and this is absolutely possible. After all, besides them and the soul family group your Union belongs to, there is no other soul connection at all that has any real and lasting meaning however on trend those ideas may be, as the 'rest' is simply: not the ultimate partner. But that 'rest' fills a life full of joy of course and also in most cases the road towards the achievement of the Twin Flame State of Being, for which we thank them cordially.

Here, we teach primarily an energetic way to walk this path, which means the Divine Feminine way. This means Sexual Magic is the way to go to be more precise, and we accompany that with word (and number and symbol) magic which is the Divine Masculine magic that comes with it. This means in short that one can summon with ones own sexual energy a series of cathartic experiences that will eventually bring forward the True Twin Flame. And this means to write down feelings to process and feelings to desire at many points of this journey, to state as many daily life results as one desires from the eventual manifestation as one feels is right as well. Of course, there is a whole lot more to be said about these kinds of magic, and this is what we teach.

One note about the only other person to be on the look out for besides the True Twin Flame, and that is the False Twin Flame: called like that because it looks and feels like the real deal but then eventually is not. Yes, indeed: it holds all the feelings, synchronicities, signs, messages and other characteristics that one would intuitively say belong to the True Twin Flame however this is a mere projection of them, theatrically staged as it were by Reality often in such a way that you absolutely do not recognize this. But do not be afraid, the occurrence of this Divine Illusion is an assurance one is processing the exact right kind of things for the best results, and the falling away of this illusion will be a great gateway to your actual coming true of the True Twin Flame. It can only be experienced to have it revealed to you and understood what is proclaimed here.

Have a blessed journey of eternal love!

Twelve Twin Flame journey steps, realistic ones that lead to the State of Being of Harmonious Union, not to be read as a timeline but as approaches that will all need to be combined for success.

1 PLEASURE sexual magic transformation in your energy is needed, essentially this means to cleanse your sexual energy and make it flow correctly, in practice this means to feel and play magic with your sexual relationship with yourself so you will go through your love and relationship lessons and disperse any trauma you may have, you rewire your sexuality in the meaning of energy flow, this in the practical daily life sense means to prepare your life in the material sense: your relationships that do not serve are thanked and ended, your house and work environment will be prepared by decluttering and making space for them, your actions of any sort will be geared towards co-creating with their soul in daily life ways such as cooking or in magical ways such as herb potions

2 WISDOM miracle consciousness transformation in your brain is necessary, essentially this means to cleanse your brain of unconnectedness or false connections in areas that are not mirroring your highest structure, you rewrite your story in the sense that you go from ego story to True soul immediacy, in practice this means to face misalignments and jarred areas in your thoughts and emotions how they are stored in your brain and remove all traumatic stagnations that may reside there by facing the core of them and moving through these areas so that the natural flow is regained, this in the practical daily life sense means to get clear on your thoughts about your partnership: what will this mean to you, what kind of relationship do you desire, what are your values and future

visions like

3 CLEAR & EDUCATE there are very specific thoughts (miracle consciousness side of things) and feelings (sexual magic side of things) that you may have that are working against making the full manifestation of the Twin Flame as friend, lover, teacher and mission partner possible in actual daily life and these need to be addressed piece by piece and healed, it can be daunting to even see what these thoughts and feelings are because we are in 2020 all raised to not think in the Twin Flame way but significantly different, all these thoughts and feelings have in common that they are about manifesting the forms of what a relationship is recognizable by in social norms, while the Twin Flame thoughts and feelings that do work will need to be about transforming the inner spiritual energy so that the form manifests in your reality in the way that will be only guided by what the inner planes tell you and you will manifest the best social translation afterwards of that as a natural result of that inner formative power in your individual case

4 COMMIT you start a serious spiritual journey on the individual level towards Golden Flow as this will greatly aid you in cleaning your inner space out and create a natural magnetic pole in you so that you can embody your part with a balanced inner energy working of opposite forces

5 DECIDE you feel your heart out about the union level of the same spiritual journey and decide that this Harmonious Union layer of the matter is for you as well, as this will greatly aid you in cleaning the space between you out and create a natural magnetic force between both poles on the bigger level, being the Divine Feminine and Divine Masculine forces in the union, that both have their own individual level responsibility within that, and decide you are open to the inner guidance about what polarity of those two you are on the soul level

6 HOLOGRAM you accept the nature of being human and that your life is formed by projecting from the inner out so that when your attunement is right, the result will somehow appear in your life no matter what and no matter if it sounds logic to you for the unhealed mind or if it seems physically impossible to you in the unconnected body, thus this step is about accepting you are a child of Source (God) at the core of yourself and you surrender illusions about control

7 TRANSFORM you surrender illusions about victimhood, by allowing in the experience of standing on your own feet, having your own roots from where you uniquely stand, grounding your own right of being on earth from the most subtle spiritual wisdom space to the most dense physical consequence and allow for a revealing process that will gradually indicate who you truly are in the light of Source, acknowledging yourself in every way in every inch from the inside out, as well letting the revealing process of who your Twin Flame is come to you in your intimate and down to earth human life because that is who you are on the Harmonious Union level of spiritual development

8 HOLISTIC accept your shadow or your unconscious as well as your light or conscious as both work together in one consciousness that has two physical expressions, the Twin Flame that was created by Source originally and yourself, do not exclude or separate anything off but work with inclusion, also accept the one you currently believe to be your Twin Flame whether they may be a false Twin Flame or the True one as for now, accepting them caused the best chance to accept the whole of it and not excluding the shadow and this strategy will lead you further until you are 100% in the True Twin Flame zone that is acknowledged with the coming in Harmonious Union that is an unmistakable State of Being consciousness, congruent with your outer world, thus using the willpower or ego in the right way by letting it be an integral part of who you are, without spurting forward and separating yourself thus from your consciousness (again) with every action, this means that you need to reach the state of being of Harmonious Union to be both sure that you are with the True Twin Flame (and not a false one) as well as harmonized in your placement towards each other and towards Source (so that there is no need to fall out in such a way anymore that you will go separate ways however one will always still refine this inner harmony) and that this state of being will need to go together with actual real life unfoldment of a story of you learning and changing, letting go of ego parts and the relationship getting truly closer by means of letting go of them, a love story of confessing your misalignments and through that coming closer, relating and celebrating

10 HOME understand that you need a community to ground your Harmonious Union in because that will guarantee that you can envelop the full spectrum of experiences that you will start to have, understand that you need a teacher within that community too to be able to develop further and further through the energetic path that is thus set out and the possibility to both get acknowledgement of where one is as well as nudges to develop further in ones blind areas, and that community and teacher that are truly able (in 2020) do not exist anywhere outside Christed School (of the current Christed soul family being currently on earth) and Magician School (this one)

11 GIVE invest with your time and money, your energy resources and your helpful geared thinking to the fullest you can without holding back or ideas about needing results in other words unconditionally, for this signifies to your soul and to Source you truly desire to receive what this is although the Truth of the experience is not known by you yet and you therefore in a way do not know what you submit yourself to

12 RECEIVE reap what you sow autonomously because you fulfilled it yourself, yet connected with us because you can not come to fruition without the new social aspect on the Harmonious Union level, and start co-creating with our Harmonious Union pairs community in your mission to sustain and grow what you have in the heart, so that you continue walking the path towards perfection

Here, the Twin Flame journey is brought into One Path with your Ultimate Abundance.

Back to the Roots: 5 Ways to place Love at the core of your Business Article originally published as blog in December 2014.

The back-to-the-roots theme has occupied me for years. I lived in the city of Groningen, The Netherlands, for 10 years, but when the light went out there in 2008 (I literally experienced this physically, spontaneously on a morning in the summer!), I went back to my roots in Arnhem. In the landscape that I missed for years. The hills and the trees called me home.

I grew up next to Arnhems famous city park Sonsbeek. But was trained as an art historian at the University of Groningen. Because Sonsbeek was back in my life, I not only took walks there, but it also became the subject of my writing, my poems to be precise. I preceded my official, national poetry debut OER from 2009 (Uitgeverij Passage, Groningen), by a small, bibliophile collection at my own publishing house, which was entirely devoted to Sonsbeek: Here the leaves blow right over the paths...

For how the stories (leaves) in my life had spread over Sonsbeek: as a girl I fed the deer, I played boat rides with my brother, standing in the creek called the Jansbeek, I sat with my childhood love on the stone bench on the Apostelenberg (the Mount of the Apostles, in our family language called 'the witch circle') ... and much more. My grandmother was known for her stories about clandestine kissing with grandpa on the benches around the large pond near De Boerderij (The Farmhouse). From her I heard the stories about my great-grandmother (her mother), who visited the Heilig Hart (Holy Heart) church every day, which is located on top of the hill, overlooking Sonsbeek - as it were.

Back to the roots ended up in my work - and the title OER refers to that, as it means 'primordial', among others. The theme also came up in my creative coaching work. After all, you also go back to yourself for creativity. First, at least, is what I think. You get something out of yourself that you didn't know you had in you. As this article is created while I am typing. In the movement to the outside, you take the new to the world. Back to the roots ultimately passes on your enrichment to the world in that movement.

Back to the roots gives the creative process itself in short.

But it gives even more. You don't go to yourself first for nothing. Something can be obtained there that cannot be found purely and alone in the world. Apparently.

What do you really want to unleash with your creative process? What makes all the effort worthwhile? Why did you first go to yourself and not immediately spit yourself out to the world? Love. The vibration of the heart.

Love is the new blueprint for business with a mission from the heart.

Love. Creative process brings her out. By first going back to the roots. After all, that brings you into a process in which you can better allow and integrate love again. And then the rest comes after it more easily and with more fullness: artwork, services, business, collaboration, project, enterprise, etc.

Love can then influence various aspects of what you shape as a mission in the friendship of your business.

Love is what comes from the soul and connects souls. Business also means relationship. Bringing love into business means that love can then do the work for which it is intended.

5 Ways in which SOULlove works definitively and business generating:

- 1 welcome substantial love that is free of the adolescent or normal love relationship model;
- 2 download the new relationship blueprint, which applies to private and business relationships;
- 3 let your sexual energy flow inside and outside the bedroom;
- 4 become found by soul related clients;
- 5 follow the twin flame path for a business partner.

Re 1

The love model in which boy falls in love with girl, girl falls madly in love with boy, girl in girl, boy in boy, transgender in girl, etc. ... is no longer what it was. Of course it is wonderful to be dragged into a rush of hormones, romantic dreams and sexual ideals. Nobody takes that away from you! But it's still the tip of the iceberg when it comes to love.

In the new love model there is just room for adolescent togetherness based on personality, because nothing opposes this. But you soon notice that you are actually driven by something deeper. Through the relationships as they are unmistakably already at the soul level. A relationship based on your being is something that is already done. It is not necessary to work on it. You no longer have to go to the psychologist or the relationship therapist – said in a lightly joking sense but this is very true as well.

It can be discovered in the sense that it is noted which relationships are present for you. And mined, in the sense of actually making contact to taste what the relationship brings you - and whether your knowledge and assessment on a soul level in reality is supported by experiences that also reflect this. Point 1 tells you: welcome this level in your life. Recognize that you experience this. It was about time!

Re 2

Recognizing the possibility of unconditional soul love and the existence of soul relationships that are already present is step 1 in downloading the new relationship blueprint. Downloading sounds more like IT - and it is! But then at a substantial level. Information and communication technology at the soul level is already built into our system (body, energy field, soul architecture, everything ...). We may not have activated the buttons properly yet. However, the subscription has been running since your birth. And the cabling is also certified. Now we can add another spark to bring it to life.

In the program Reset your DNAAbundance (a meditation CD and also a program) your soul love is activated on a new level. I thereby assume that all information and also the seed for the new blueprint are already present in you. However, you get a small tour in your creative vortex and you answer what you find there, even if only in embryonic form. DNAAbundance in a certain sense lays the umbilical cord between yourself and your essential ground. Or connect the loosened or damaged (by trauma or habit or otherwise) synapses in your brain.

If your new blueprint is activated, you will notice that you are going to sail on a new sea, with a fresh sea chart, as it were. The metaphors in my writing are starting to pan out (IT, sea, map, etc.). You have that, that damn creativity too! But: it's not about the metaphors, it's about experiencing. That is the new luxury. You arrive in the plush of your experiential world, which, under the individual, ultra-personal, becomes universal at the soul level.

Re 3

Sexuality is necessary for the realization of that which is present in your creative vortex. What!? Yes, so sexuality. No sex, in the sense of sexual acts. Not that they are forbidden. far from! Feel free please. But this is about freedom of sensuality, of your feeling throughout your sexual zone of your body and feeling. Just as much in the bedroom as outside it. Just as much in your partner or love relationship as outside it. It's about letting your energy experience exist fully, not repress it.

By releasing your sexuality in this way, you arrive at "giving birth" to what is present in your soul vortex. You come to speak with your soul relationships, you come to action in your soul-connected mission, you come to form for your soul-related business. It is not about a loose indulgence. Neither for a controlled release of what you have mapped out. It requires a certain balance and also the freedom to allow imbalance. Because otherwise you will not come to something new or to a relationship, but "stay inside".

In other words: dare to play. Invent a game. Play it with gentleness and love. Feel affectionate to something new. Innovate yourself with sensuality. Play sensitively with your senses to explore fresh options. But don't lose it. Find what essentially resonates with you in it. The expression as sexual energy as sexual acts is safe and pure in your twin flame union; but when one does not even have contact with one's life energy, that the sexual energy is, you will not be able to build anything creatively with your being...

You don't play the game alone. That is a given; no question. We are here together and you certainly did not come to earth just for yourself as a soul. If you embark on a development at the soul level (in which all other levels are included, such as psychological, emotional, physical, professional, etc.), then you can certainly come across periods in which you are largely alone. I do.

In your soul development you will notice that a period is coming when all your existing relationships are taken out of the socket to be reconnected, but then to another current level - or possibly no longer to be connected. Then you can be alone. That is not so bad! You will be much better able to find that nobody is alone on the subtle soul level, in truth. In point five, it will become fully clear as to why.

You will start attracting new relationships, which flow on your new power level. Or your existing relationships will be updated with the new current software. These new relationships also apply in business: you will either start attracting clients for who you really are or attract other clients that fit your soul vibration instead of randomly approaching you because of your slogans. Not that good marketing would no longer play a role ... But there is clearly a new dimension.

Re 5

Starting a business with the ultimate soul-minded business partner, based on a jointly felt mission: you can't dream of a more beautiful and prosperous connection than that. A team made in heaven. For equivalent results. It is the truth that this is life's intention for you. Do you feel drawn to this scenario? Is this what you dream about at night and fantasize about during the day? An image that calls you from the depths?

The ultimate soul relationship is your life teacher, your best friend and your ultimate lover all-in-one, and can also become your business partner. This can be found in the identical soul vibration that has become known (especially in recent years) under the name twin soul or twin flame. It is possible that this becomes reality for you; if this rings true to you, you can be sure it is for you. I myself have walked this path for twenty years, and it did come to a full bloom for me in my Harmonious Twin Flame Union in 2020. So, as you see, it is possible to reach that destination.

All points 1 to 5, refer in a way to creative leadership, in which a balanced male and female side forms the basis for co-creating at a substantial level with anyone or anything and with your True Twin Flame ultimately and perfectly. Creative Leadership:

- male and female aspects in balance in yourself and in relationships;
- your information supply transformed to a baseline that fits your creativity;
- your senses have been transformed through the deepening effect of creativity into gateways to your deeper knowledge, being and truth;
- your professional communication has become an essential expression of your soul mission.

An in-depth dimension that comes on top of this is the soul-relationship aspect, with the twin-soul relationship as the top. Which by the way is so incredibly misunderstood outside of those who experience her. Because there are totally different characteristics of connection, other physical and mental symptoms, which are often reversed to what the love relationship system, which is considered normal, indicates!

An important and intensely known example for this is given by Mary Magdalene and Jesus Christ. A deeply spiritual couple. They form the new relationship model - and business equals establishing relationships and assigning value within them.

They worked together to spread a new level of consciousness. The fact that the role of Mary has hardly been recorded in the official writings does not mean that it was not there. The life of Christ is still seen as an example - and not just at Christmas. So why wouldn't the saying "behind every man ... et cetera" deep in their past have applied ;-)?! That is the least that can be said about this.

A much depicted Jesus-and-Mary scene, is the one that is known from the Bible of the phrase: Noli me tangere.

"Rabboni," says Mary. "Master!"

Within the relationship, it was with Jesus that the new consciousness first came through, which at the same time had an equal love and also (equivalent) master-student relationship.

Mary sees him in the garden where he was buried after his crucifixion. First thought it was the gardener. Is then more than surprised to see him - risen from the dead.

Mary wants to grab him.

"Noli me tangere", says Jesus. "Don't hold on to me. Just as I was not the human garment that I wore with life, I am not this risen appearance either. I am the essential energy that also lives in you. We are One."

Jesus tries to heal Mary from her urge to grasp everything and to identify with form instead of with love, that love is already in her.

The new relationship model asks the woman to stop manipulating the man, but let him exist - and go, when the time comes. It asks her to recognize the love in herself. This way she can be sure he will always stay, because it is at another level that the relationship exists: that of eternity.

It asks the man to learn to understand who he really is and not to avoid love but to be it. To show his love self to her without reservation. Not to manipulate her by pretending that he is needy for the care reflex that actually involves manipulation. This way he can be sure the love is felt and mutually shared equally.

The new relationship model thus transforms at cell level from mutual manipulation to relationship at the soul level.

That is why this Bible scene moves me so much. (Everything my interpretation.)

PS A piece from Book OER and also in a collection of poems Here the leaves blow right over the paths..., translated from the Dutch (and know that poetry is very difficult to translate, so bear with me and just get an indication).

here the leaves blow right over the paths. they run and continue naturally if the wind wants it. nearby the wellhead I am hanging over the fallen tree that binds both banks.

the water is becoming increasingly thin here. tragedy reduces with the flow. the current soothes with every mill more. the nuns mill tranquility, the white watermill runs invisibly.

here is the workplace. here I give the hammer.
the servant takes the leaves from the mill stream.
the blades rake the excess from the water.
the water eternally drives the intestines.

Money

My quest for an independent flow of money coming to me to benefit my life support, took me consciously approximately a decade of research, and came out as being a search for my True Twin Flame, that provided me with the ultimate love to heal my energy body. This is true for all: your money is your love. We do not promote other money then love-money here, for all that money is an illusion because it is not build on a solid ground, it can not sustain itself and will either make you live an illusory and therefore ultimately unfulfilled life or it will somehow one day fall away from you.

Money can be said to originate from the idea of making the exchange of life sustaining goods more easy by introducing an intermediary and this intermediary becoming less and less physical and more virtual over time: a transformation that augmented the factor of trust but also introduced power factions on the side. These power factions, in an attempt to sustain their grasp on the matter, created virtual structures that survive till date that make on one side money out of nowhere and on the other side keep bank clients under their dominance by having them pay more back then they gave out with the idea of rent. For this reason, money got a bad rep in large portions of society and in our unconscious. New inventions such as Bitcoin, in other words cryptocurrencies, try to offer an alternative by have trust replaced by an autonomous and automatic system as the intermediary party by none at all (however both can be disputed).

This ultra short history of money is true not withstanding the fact that in a holistic world view – the one we stand for – money is essentially energy that moves from one place to the other, materialized. When we see the entire world as an internal job that is governed by our soul and the Source of our soul, money is an expression of soul no matter in what way, shape or form one prefers to obtain it: barter, natural goods exchange, money, crypto... Seeing money as energy and connect that energy back to the soul is within our understanding the only viable way to transform any existing money system to wholeness as well. In the light of your Union of Souls that is the natural architecture of your Being and healer of the world, it does not matter if the energy or money will be collected in your Divine Feminine or your Divine Masculine counterpart as this is a full co-creation that heals the individual and then the societal money mindset and reality.

Most likely, as in our Union, the energy will collect in your Divine Feminine and Money in your Divine Masculine Counterpart, because of the nature of things being such that the more internal and energetic flow belongs to the feminine and the more outer and material flow belongs to the masculine. This is not to say that old fashioned gender ideas will need to be restored in social and societal interaction; this speaks of a spiritual level of things that is an even extra layer besides sex, gender and your personal preferences therein. In fact, this indicates a deeply intimate way of belonging to each other.

Now, this is true on the scale of Union, and there is also a Union within the individual, and there we can see it always makes sense to be able to work with both energies in your personal life to a degree one is comfortable and makes sense to ones needs, especially during the journey. The depth of healing of the counterparts together combining their natural proclivity however can not be understated in profundity as an experience and a Truth. And the other, more individual Union within the individual, as stated right before, has it's own fullness point to be reached, that can be explained as energy body healing: all body parts that equal energy points have come online both in the personal and spiritual realm.

To re-state that more clearly: the individual energy and therefore money healing comes from the individual energetic healing in the body. When this is fully reached on a sustainable base, we speak of Golden Flow, that needs to be Anchored in Truth and will behave like a blooming Flower from there. The True Twin Flame Union when coming into Harmonization phase, will heal the energy and therefore money flow on the Union level, which includes the Divine Feminine and Divine Masculine natural roles towards each other. Because you now form a Spiritual Marriage in the highest form, this spreads in a complete way of being socially and societally that is peaceful, free and respectful with energy and thus money.

The study in theory, history, real life, social action and spiritual depth in these combined topics money, cryptocurrency, energy, body, healing, gender, feminism, business, social development, has been vast here – and we desire for you to enjoy the fruits of that more then have to redo the whole search on your own. This summary was extremely short but we hope it serves it's goal. The healing into the letting go of negative ideas about money is something that we desire for you and the meditation Reset your Money DNA is introduced for that reason. MEconomy is a business approach that combines this info in a way to shape your mission in such a way that energy and money will flow correctly.

Energy body healing can be achieved through working with the Key to Creation healing methods. And as energy is in essence sexual energy, as that is where energy on the body level is coordinated and lead, we love you to take note of the options of sexual magic too. Sexual magic meaning the spiritual progress that can be achieved through energy work within the understanding that energy is sexual in nature. This ties the topic of healing into a fulfilled money life, that is a fulfilled energy system, again right back to the topic of the Ultimate Lover. This is how you see that all of this work is completely interrelated.

Since the interconnectedness is even more vast then our research into all the separate topics that went into this money introduction, and the aim of this book is more to give you an emotional-spiritual road through the High Road that the Path offers, we are not even able to be complete even if tried. The fact that this is a healing System with a great inner cohesion, also comprises of the fact that creativity, business, energy healing, sexuality, spirituality, money and love on the spiritual and personal path are essentially all the same.

When one reaches the states of being that are included in The Path, Golden Flow and Harmonious Union, one of the things that will happen is that the curtain will fall for you on the Universes Secrets of Abundance. We teach to have this happen to you yourself more then you taking second hand ideas of people that also did take it from others. The sacredness of these laws is something that can best come forward to you in a truthful and intimate relationship with your soul, Source and Ultimate Lover. To help this process we will give you many ideas on how to move forward on this journey and enlighten you on some of them as well of course. Nothing can however come into the place of your own work and progress.

The name of this Path is the Ultimate Pleasure Path to Perfection because you are on the road of creation with your ultimate lover in spiritual truth to bring your energy and thus money into flow so that healing relationships can sprout from you. This will not give you the high of quick positivity but it will transform your personal taste and mix of positive and negative or conscious and unconscious into rock solid deepenings that one can step on to move forward. As you will experience, the taste of these soul touches one can stand on, is of the indescribable joy that can only come from the Source of Perfection.

The reality of Golden Flow is True and fulfills your Money desires as your Energy connected fully to Universal Consciousness

Golden Flow is the State of Being that makes your individual energy system activated, balanced out and fulfilled at the core, to from there on out click fully in with the greater embrace of Consciousness: the space where the Soul resides, fed by the Source of All. It needs to be Anchored in Truth (rather then the physical what if often thought of as how it works) and will from there on out start to Bloom to your environment whether nature or people or otherwise. Golden Flow crosses the State of Being of Harmonious Twin Flame Union at the place of Consciousness, as you will at that level find yourself (eventually, on the same or another timing) not to be alone but be with (usually) two wholes as two peas in a pod, that complement each other.

For the looks of it, this State of Being will remind many that have any knowledge of the Indian traditional meditation systems, of the chakra's, the well-known energy point in the body system, that need to be healed to work properly, harmonize and then fall into a naturally healthy state. And this is certainly true, however the Master Magician that inspires this book and the methods behind it, is not culture exclusive, traditional system dependent and even pronounced the desire for there to be an update and upgrade of everything known to mankind in this realm, for the new era that starts as we speak, including and honoring all that already exists and their traditions and histories – even the history of his own methods passed on in his incarnation as Pacal Votan fall into the category of being updated for the era starting in 2020, leading to the bloom of the Golden Age.

The author of this book also updates even her own material as given out in the nineteenth century: the precipitation of this new, more hands-on approach and the system created for it, you will find in the book Nine Entrances to Conscious Creativity and roughly said consists of 9 instead of 7 main energy points as related again to the well-known Indian chakra system, by including the earth and the heaven points in the human energy field. The nine point energy system is carried by real physical-energetic blueprints that downloaded on earth in a fresh way for this time to be able to assist in ascension.

Besides from these somewhat theoretical parts of the story, Golden Flow of course comes by feeling your nine energy points out, detect where they need healing, energetic repair and allowing for this process to happen. There are many techniques that can assist you in doing so. Self-healing is the basis of the system and is thus available to all for free, however many will need assistance to even be able to get to the experience level of their energy, that coincides with the idea of learning how to feel rather than be in emotions. It is for most growing in our current world-wide predominant society not an evident matter of course to be able to distinguish what this is – is what experience taught.

As the energy and the body both have mirroring parts, and feeling your energy is greatly accessible by feeling your body out in a very sensitive way, it is self-evident how we can make use of our vehicles to get to know and heal our energy systems from this greatly assisting venture point. Thus, feeling where you do not fully connect with your body, or where your body feels cold, or poor or not fulfilled, is a effective thermometer for starting of this work and scan your current state of being. Having a full feeling in your entire body on the energy level, coincides with a full feeling in your energy body, which coincides also with a fulfilled daily life that is connected to different aspects of that body and energy body. This in an easy way to explain how one can interconnect the idea of money with ones energy: money being an outer world, daily life translation of what is also happening on the body and the energy body levels.

You might say: “Okay so a warm, fulfilled, positive feeling energy in my entire body, and a full free flow in my energy body is what I need for my natural abundance including my money,” and you would be right for the most part, however it is a process rather than a proclamation that makes it come true. For many the actual becoming true of this simplified and quite understandable equation will be a road that has many steps and life experiences ahead – that may (to serve as somewhat of a warning) sometimes not be so much desired from the current status quo of ones energy, personalty and mindset. In other words: resistance must be met and worked through, life areas have to be confronted and looked in the eye that could feel so much out of order when one becomes aware of them, that it may at first feel like avoidance is a much preferred way of dealing.

To help you in your process, that includes a certain amount of time to confront, process and heal, you can get a hold of procedures that allow you to tap from the end result right away in the Now, so you can allow for the self-initiation of the beginning of healing of certain aspects to take place. Procedures are timeless moments in which you reach into your soul and from there into the Source of All that is Ever Present. We teach procedures in the Book Nine Entrances to Conscious Creativity and assist you in finding your very own unique flavor in procedures in the Creative ID Reading. Of course, meditation is helpful here, as long as your approach to it actually makes way to make a physical-energetic connection to take place as a gesture of grace. Yoga is helpful, as this refers again to well-known ancient Indian techniques, within the understanding that the term yoga means to make this conscious connection with the unconscious soul and Source that was mentioned just before, and not a word descriptive of gymnastics in any way, shape or form in itself.

Golden Flow will be clear to you when you reach this state, as it will feel to you as a final clicking in of the full system, after you have most probably just worked through the major tear that your system had, to the full degree that is needed to make this final click. Generally spoken, many 'western' people have a major tear in their system in being too grounded and not enough in contact with the higher realms of their system and many 'eastern' people will have an opposite situation. The higher the points are in your energy system, the more fine in vibration and the lower, the more dense in vibration. The universal is more in the higher realms, and the personal in the lower half.

These are very rough indications: the lower half as problem area is in a way the most difficult for everyone as it is there that the energies get really personal and it may feel much more of an issue to even desire to look those misalignments in the eyes; problems in the upper often feel less personal and have more to do with our relation to Source, however a blocked relation to source will definitively hold one back to realize the True Twin Flame, ones True Life Mission and will materialize money that is not of Unconditional Love.

The spiritual realm is furthermore not only accessible in the higher energy points in your individual energy field, but also has clear points of attachment on the backside of your (energetic) body, whereas the personal realm will be felt in the front. Your connection to the lowest point is (so in the nine point system underneath the body in the earth) an indication of accepting your True Heaven on Earth (and not the physical earth alone) – or not. And your highest point above the head holds your temperature of being able to receive your guidance from Source, somewhat as opposed to the very many other sources of wisdom that are often called spiritual that may belong to the astral, indeed indicating to you that these guidances are different in source, direction and efficacy.

All points can all-together be called the heart, as the Heart is in the very middle of these points and also guided through this point. In a way, the heart means the exact place of the energy point in the middle of the others, as well as that it can signify the whole of your energy body, as felt in a sensitive way in how it is attuned as a whole due to the current state of affairs in the combined energy point temperature of all consecutive parts. The tune, or vibration or sound that your current energy body as a whole produces, is a statement of the state of healing into Golden Flow where you are right now. Pronounced like this, it naturally becomes clear that there is also a fully healed harmony of vibration that is possible for uniquely You. This not only makes your energy body click definitively into your consciousness, but also calls in your True Twin Flame to be together with in you in that Healing Pod of Light that you are.

Furthermore, it attracts all that naturally belongs to you, to you, from places unknown to the personality you thought to be before you healed into this State: from where you left off in your past life; from clients you did not know were waiting for you around the globe; from friends of your soul you did not know were going to be so incredibly kind to you as a result of the harmony they sense in you, in the Two of You. Your natural abundance consists of money, opportunities, real estate, food, supplies, relationships, businesses and much much more. In fact, the result of your attraction can be as wild as your imagination, given the fact that you create through it and will be perfectly aligned with both the micro level of your body and identity as well as the macro level of the world and universe when you arrive at this point so your imagination will only call in that which is True.

All the resources of the Universe will cooperate and conspire with your Creative Will in automation and bring you what you rightfully own by your birthright in Heaven on Earth. Prepare for receiving your Good by learning both business structures as well as energy structures, to prepare for your leak-free reception capacity, and understand they are eventually One and the Same. It can be very unbelievable to the conditioned mind that your warm, soft, vibrant, grand abundance in all desired forms, will come to you in the exact place where you are and from the state of energy body alone; however for the transformed mind this is only natural. There is no reason to look outside of oneSelf although you may want to prove this Universal Law to yourself before you can fully accept it – well and make that your most enlightened goal then!

As energy is always sexual energy, as this is where its origin is, and as attraction of your Good and/or Ultimate Partner is a sexual thing in nature, all of these topics tie together perfectly. It is only logical that energy and sexuality in broad sense (not as a sexual act in itself or only but as attraction and enjoyment of everything you love) has a place in the topic of money as well. Sexuality in this definition is a true magic, just like rewriting your energy story to birth a transformed mind. In this transformed state the mind holds only storylines of success and of growth: it is your personal and unique story of your Path to Perfection. Writing is therefore another form of profound magic. Stating this, makes this chapter fully rounded and refer back to itself.

Having the sexual feeling of being at home in yourself and your (daily) life individually is key on the personal energy body level; this leads to and adds positively to growth inside your Union, which is nothing but your bigger you. Having your story tell how you walked the stepping stones of the spiritual and personal journey that are grounded in truth, is empowering; this leads to and adds positively to your Natural Abundance.

What is MEconomy? Five ground rules.

0 Abandon the idea that money comes from ego play and where we historically and socially see that men are very forward in this play, that now women are also going to bust forward and be the same pushers; by leaving this idea to move even further than that there comes space for surrender to a much more true ground than the ego for manifesting money; the idea is to peacefully commit to the creation of value in uniquely your way without the necessity to have the big money stream on top of it and do it any way while building the holistic structures through which the money can come when it arrives

1 To start this process off assess where you truly are in numbers honestly but without judgement, see all numbers below or above zero as a valuable landscape where you can start and find your possibilities in this landscape to invest as the ground rule is always that money comes as you can let it go (or flow)

2 Starting to build will mean steps through the fear and on the Path that will lead you through and out of the current landscape of below-or-above zero, while learning about and thus creating a holistic stand-alone business structure without barter deals except a first phase for testimonials and no more than one step affiliate because it will get unfair after that, while understanding that using cryptocurrencies is possible yet do not absolve you from making the business structures on a stand alone basis and also not from connecting the construct to official constructions when the current often nation regulated jurisdiction is still valid

3 Steps are first taken in the investment area where you work with the start anyway and before you are ready principle and then in the profit area where you co-create with the official business (and additional such as tax) structures

4 Learn your creative identity in the course of going to the state of being of Golden Flow, see how this co-creates with your ultimate co-creational partner your Twin Flame in the state of being that is bigger than Golden Flow called Harmonious Union, learn what creative services you can give to the world from that place and also what part of all necessary business aspects fit you naturally

5 Learn your life's mission after Harmonious Union, because before this state of being is reached in full in your heart, you may have a (correct) rough direction, and that will be falling into place in a detailed, definitive and acknowledging way afterwards or be adjusted by Source according to what it will be for you for eternity, peacefully – and you will come to understand that the truly solid and eternally lasting kind of building of an economic structure only works with relating and surrendering to Source within the Path following MEconomy, otherwise you will once lose it whether now, in the future or in a next lifetime, and that conversely you in fact open up the inherent possibility of making use of your past life's abundance that is still here and still alive and don't even need to do much to make this happen to support you

Workbook

Some journal prompts:

1 What if your soul and not your ego-personality was choosing your relationships, what would be different? Describe.

2 What if your soul and not your ego-personality was shaping your money life, what would be different? Describe.

3 Identify 3 points in the Twin Flame information that coincide with what you have been or are currently experiencing on the journey. Note them down and describe how you could move forward from that place.

4 Participating in the MEconomy, or soul economy, will be a new experience for you. Which aspects you read feel right to you and why? Describe.
