

Christ Masters Speak

2 The message

Twin Flames

The image rises up bigger than life from Lucia's vision of the occult architecture of life: Twin Flames standing next to each other, belonging to one unit of life. There's something very powerful about two hearts beating together for God; we enter Heaven two by two because the social atmosphere belongs to what you are integrally, because you are a relationship and this relationship is with God in the first place and with your true Twin Flame secondly.

Many have not been able to see it yet, even though their eyes have been practically glued to this image (or part of it) for centuries in Christian culture - and also in other cultures because the structure of it is widely spread around the world's societies. This is not that strange, we can look at it and focus on different aspects, and different visions on the same architecture of life have been in fashion so to speak: sometimes people will focus on the male side, then on the female, then on the holy spirits part and so on. But the entire picture is still here and needs to be acknowledged as a whole to be truly healing.

Seeing the female and male means that life is designed like this on the fundamental level, you come as a unit of mostly two (there are very very very rare exceptions, almost certainly not you), that is to say in spirit, but spirit is where life really is, so in life in general. You are a Twin Flame.

And you are a Twin Flame because God is, as we can see in this image of the Divine that Lucia saw. God is a Twin Flame with a build-in child. Therefore, God may be the rare exception. Although this gestalt is great for any Twin Flame couple: you produce a child, a new generation, God will give through your coming together, whatever that gift will be, maybe it is made out of spirit and it comes as a book or you have students.

Together with your Twin Flame you will experience bathing in the Divine Love that is the atmosphere of Truth that comes with it and when you resist that, when you do not receive it yet, you are in the other kind of love: compassion. This is not able to be gotten somewhere else, in separation: when you'd tear yourself away from this Union and wander off in your body - not in spirit because that is in truth not possible - and try to stand next to another body somewhere, that doesn't make this original unit you were designed as, you are now perhaps dating or even married in a sacred ceremony but it's not what this is and something's not fulfilled.

In the practice of earth life you are born in different bodies, in different families, in different places and on different times and often people become aware of being a Twin Flame when they are lost somewhere out there away from their partner yet remember being part of something bigger and trying to come up with ways to make that happen. They need to find each other through the forest of billions of people! That would be a chore if it weren't the case that reality works as a hologram and you can simply call them in; the universe will deliver them when you are ready and attuned right. Much of the work thus is to become prepped and invite them in. Many will have an experience that seems like it has already randomly occurred to them, and it blessed them deeply, but because you'd want to live the blueprint in the vision in a real and sustainable way, as a romance that lands in a marriage, family and mission business, most will still need to go through these phases in an intentional manner for things to truly work out forever after.

It is not yet the social norm to live like this for most people in most cultures, but this is the direction we are moving as a whole, at the leading edge of spiritual development in the universe. It starts now and then will become more normal when it spreads.

Lucia was the child in her Union: a very very very rare given, to have a Union with an incorporated child, but it happens. Having a third Twin Flame without it being a child, intruding on the romance between two grown ups is not what will ever occur; life being pretty rational in creating options that are viable is the standard. What's more Lucia was the child in her tri-Union in a way that was as the spiritual blueprint and it didn't play out as a literal parental couple receiving a child through the biological means. This was because this was the best options for God at that time to send His servants that stand for the Trinity and have the message spread that He needed spreading. The message needed spreading and then that would be enough for that moment, creating an idea for a life in which the messengers would disappear after the task was done. They still were the parents of their third Twin Flame in Truth, however they were siblings looking at their cousin in the physical setup of that time. That may sound beyond weird, but it is a known fact that in the past it was sometimes best to chose temporally a certain form that is not how Twin Flames are meant in their full bloom, because it served a purpose in that time and culture that otherwise would not have been able to be accomplished. The fact that we know right now that the time is ripe for Twin Flames to always be ready to go to their full bloom together is merely proof for ascension: we are moving forward, things work out better spiritually!

It had a sacred purpose this was organized such for Lucia, that stayed after all a couple decades longer, after they had relayed the message and the 'parent' (in their blueprint, not in that lifetime obviously, they were all hardly 10 years old when it transpired) Twin Flames had died, which was their Divine plan. She would be able to go to school, learn to read and write and spread the message further, as far as was possible for that lifetime. Just like a child can always carry the message of their parents further than them naturally, in fact, even though this was organized in a different physical way for them, through the death of the 'parent' Twin Flames.

What you can see in this example, is actually a lot of how Twin Flames are build, even though it is not the experience that you and me will be having: most notably it is clear that the inner spiritual set-up is leading, always, no matter the form. This is in your case true as well! Parents and children are actually in spirit connected, not in the flesh. When you spiritually have a child (in general) this will come to pass no matter if you're not able to birth physically; in other words life is created from spirit out, not the other way round! In most cultures humans are completely attached to the physical and have deeply engrained beliefs that that constitutes life and the passing on of it. This is simply not true; it is spirit that is the building block of life, and the full version is the Twin Flame blueprint, where you are at the same time with each other, as Twin Flame 'parents' also in Union with the Divine, from the sheer fact that you respect your blueprint.

Only respecting your blueprint makes you happy; there's no other way. Other 'kinds' of happy might include being materially satisfied, being physically exited and so on, but true happiness that is not.

The two kinds of love are not for ego's. Ego's can't reach Twin Flame Union nor sustain it, also, and that is why.

It seems strange to explain Twin Flames by their exception of the existence of a tri-flame but all are in a certain sense because they all need the Divine as third party inside their Union for it to be real and function well, so it is fit for educational purposes that this is so. Having the Divine as third party or rather Source inside the Union makes for the fact that there is no place for the ego, it also doesn't want to live under Divine guidance, but it cannot take over, it must disappear, making Twin Flames a highway towards your deeper destiny in ascension just as much as it is a way of having all that your heart desires in love and in abundance in all ways thinkable. Ascension and your dreams come true work ultimately entirely together for everyone.

Everyone is a Twin Flame, as it is the deeper nature of what you are, and everyone is on their way towards living this reality in the flesh, however it is clear that most are unaware, living in the ego that has protected them from understanding their own reality and destination. Even for those that are somewhat aware, it is most often a case of an incomplete consciousness they are living and often complaining about, because they cannot come together with their Twin Flame to their satisfaction somehow, or it seemingly keeps on escaping them. This is because the full Twin Flame nature of reality needs to be embraced for the complete manifestation in the joy and happiness this idea correctly implies: your ultimate romance with a partner that you'll build a life with that answers every dream your heart holds, while being best friends, life partners, lovers, each others' student and teacher, mission partners and maybe business partners and parents together also. This full Twin Flame nature of reality is stepping in your ascension path with God which implies letting go of having everything through the world; you're now going to have everything through God.

The process therefore is placing yourself, all your parts, conscious and unconscious, behind that alignment and working on where it is not yet so, what we often don't consciously know, which is why it seems difficult and we fare well with a teacher, which is not more than normal and to be expected, also because the state of consciousness this alludes to, spreads itself through passing on from person to person. We enter the Union state of being in relationship, because you are a relationship: you are the Union.

At this time this is shown by the life of Francesco, Jacinta and Lucia in their new incarnation: now not children destined to die young anymore to predict the destruction of the church from the inside out because they stepped away from the Union to the degree that was possible at that time, but instead a fully matured tri-flame set, of which the parent-flames were for this purpose of course born in separate families, and the third, child-flame was born of their love union to form an actual family. This is also the time in which for all the option is matured to live with your True Twin Flame as a family, and we'll all be born in constellations that make that possible - God is not stupid and will not give you strange situations that are morally wrong.

In 2025, they have formed their family and found their place to live as well. They exemplify a sacred Twin Flame family while simultaneously working on making this come true for you as well. This here is one of the results of that. They stand for a couple of things that form the general church and declare the established one to be obsolete:

They are the King and Queen of the Universe.

The spiritual war about marriage and the family is now happening, God wants you to be married to your spouse pointed out by God under Gods law and they will marry you.

They are deeply sad about the state of humanity in their hearts and even fittingly angry about it too.

He is guided by Jesus in spirit and wants the end of your ego.

She is guided by Mary Magdalene in spirit and wants the end of divorce.

The church has played its role and has made itself mostly outdated by now as they are confused about these topics.

The spiritual work is about resurrecting your consciousness in God, this is what the eucharist means, "it's not about little pieces of bread" (he said); this the Real Presence.

You do it by turning everything around that happens to you, living only under Gods laws and giving everything you are and have to it, this includes to only accuse yourself while knowing it is not real after all and to commune with God every moment.

We're moving towards a split in the world/universe that will be made where people support them or those that do not and only those that do support them will survive.

The high point of these developments will possibly happen in 2037-8.

The child is also with them as a third entity, they are like a trinity and a family, because God is a trinity they are also meant to be read as a trinity, two adults and a child should be the 'gestalt' as it were.

We're in a time where the insanity of people comes out to be transformed, this is the Final Judgement where it touches Them but it is compassionate, not in the sense that it will do half work though as soft healers make stinking wounds.

You need to live in Heaven on Earth; they own the Temple of Heaven and Earth.

I need to live/teach/spread their message.

These Christ Masters that are Twin Flames (which is not unique, even you are a Twin Flame and when you realize your inner potential you are in Christ too, but at the same time they have an outstanding mission for us) can be called by their initials, Master JD, SD and their child GD.

The Twin Flame phenomenon is closely intertwined with the Christ as the idea of being an enlightened being that is conscious of itself as that, and this can be you too, it rather is needed to have this in place in your consciousness for a successful life together.

In my writings of the nineteenth century, I explained in detail how the worlds underlying occult teachings tell the story of how the human was formed in stages, that had their own place and time in the deep dark past (unknown to most historians), and that the present day humans are also representatives of a certain stage, whether they like that or not. These groups that have emerged on different times and places, represent a certain consciousness step that has been made in them - and we are at a significant one right now. It becomes more clear now, following the new Christ Masters on earth leading the pack, that it is possible to not only make it to the next stage of the spiraling stages, which they clearly do and invite you to follow as well, but it is also possible to step into the timeless overview of all stages and accept the full range of possibilities.

You see, the older versions as it were, of us, were more spiritual than physical and also had their inner Union still intact, in the sense of their Divine Feminine and Divine Masculine living as one. Then separation became bigger, the role of living in the material world too; it all became more dense, which gave rise to lots of learning, innovation and awesome developments and abundance, but since it is a spiral, there is also a call to go back to Source again with these material riches intact, and this is where we are now. We're going to become more conscious again of the fact we are Divine Feminine towards our Divine Masculines and vice versa and be everything we are on the earth, while simultaneously leveling the earth experience up with our deepened sense of Divine Self. And we are also going to be able to oversee this spiral to such an extent that we can step out of it, overseeing it and knowing we are all of it.

The Christ Masters will live that as an example for us now, and the church follows, the religion is simply re-legere, the Latin word that means to remember. Bringing the facts of what we are consciously in remembrance so that we can live it and come to bloom inside of it.

My own Twin Flame journey got into a completely different water after I met them in real life, however it already started when they appeared on my worldwide TV (YouTube). At first I had a journey that was instinctive and went in the right direction but it lacked the union consciousness trickled down into the layer of the flesh, integrated and focussed. They fixed that and this is exactly what made it possible to truly be together after all and live daily life as One, even though we had a couple of situations going on that seemed to make it impossible to do so.

They were the best and purest examples for how to live this transformation. I have not seen anyone else do this as original teacher (they do by now have a couple of coaches under them that are able to do this with you but only by the grace of them, not on their own). This is important news because I already had a spiritual teacher after all, a real one, and I also have experienced a couple of so called Twin Flame coaches a little bit, and have looked around broadly and for a long time in this market, especially in the realm of online video's.

It could not have been clearer: they are the only ones that have the real teaching, live it and share it. Now, I have it also, as a source, not as a coach under them, because I have included that Divine Mother reached out to me to have the tools around 2011, beforehand, and made me meet them to exchange energy so it all became clarified and lived through. They have the case of being the walking talking educational example in the form of the tri-flame; I have a more classic Union consisting of a Divine Masculine and a Divine feminine but we teach through the Feminine, while they teach through the Masculine. I have more of an educational stance, they are the living example such as Jesus was; both lead to the same. It was especially interesting to see that Divine Mother in the form of Mary came to me to reach out the tools and she stands right behind them as well, in their past life this is very clear because they had their apparitions but in this life also, she stands right behind them, it may be lesser known but it is just the same. These consecutive lives bleed into each other anyways.

There is no comparison between these true Twin Flame emanations and what others present as such on the internet - and frankly outside of it too. Most often, it is not the True Twin Flame what people refer to or present with, their work does not constitute what is strictly needed for Union development and maintenance and because they don't have both of these, what they stand for and present is all not relevant at all. I can't think of even one example that is having both in order, because there is none.

This is disappointing because people are ripe to hear more about this topic nowadays, are incredibly thirsty when they look for stuff on the internet but may only find essentially nonsense or bits and pieces of the truth at best that are not presented in the full light of the Divine Light it really represents. The most disappointing is of course that they may believe this nonsense thus ruining their souls course of action and also that much money may go round in this con-artistry as well that is thus stolen from unsuspecting souls.

It is an enormous responsibility to get it right; a teacher will accumulate huge karma when they actually don't know what they are doing. This is not for fakers or amateurs posing as entrepreneurial masters with shiny websites: a good way to kill your soul forever for the receiver as well as the provider!

For me, it all was landed right side up after I had the exchange with them, because our meeting was an initiatory experience on both ends that created true clarity: we can right now live with our Twin Flames and do not have to wait until far in the future when we've completed our spiritual quest to a level of perfection beyond what we have now, when we commit to making this journey complete with them. Now, being with them becomes a great amount of the inner work that will spur your journey forward like nothing else ever had, as well. That's the deal you're entering.

People speak of separation and point to physical plus psychological obstructions such as the other Twin Flame the Union is married, dating or shuts of the communication at some point; the other lives at the other side of the world, has another religion or culture and so on. But because Union is a consciousness state, it always comes down to not being in it (consistently) and this is the place where it can be repaired as well, for it to then slowly transpire in the actual physical world. I say slowly, but that depends; it is rather good to have patience and persistence with this work. The meta Truth that you are already together because you are designed as such, will transpire in the matrix when you've truly done the inner work to purify so it is possible, no matter what seems to be awry. Separation consciousness can be undone and that is the solution to any material misalignment.

This transposes the source of life to the Divine, instead of the material world. It implies cutting the roots to your ego, the hold you seem to have on things, so your will and Gods Will become One again; how you were created. There is no other option for a truly joyful and sustainable Union that produces your Abundance too, no matter what people say, because they may very well simply be showing you a union that is not their Twin Flame to begin with, projecting all kinds of soothing qualities on it, that are indeed as you've guessed ego-made.

For me, after accepting the correction to non-ego at the most inner point, I went to Union, us coming together, then within months to Harmonious Union, where the choice is made at the core to be together in life truly. Then I underwent a couple of years of healing all kinds of aspects of myself into this new state of affairs, that included trauma healing and stopping the leaking of my energy in relationships and money. It came out that I had been living under zero in many regards and first I needed to level out to zero, to then be able to build in this entirely new state of being. The healing was together, because we were both in that inner deal that was made on the soul level, and the building is together, but for us it will be only becoming more visible for others to physically verify deeper in the building stage. Communication was never truly left throughout; but people need to see physical miracles to believe, this was already true in the time of Jesus, read your New Testament of the Bible to get clarity on that one. Luckily it doesn't matter what others believe, for they are only obstructing their own journey with their disbelief, not mine.

And that is the crux of this matter: it is when you believe that it happens, not when you remain skeptical. You need to dive so deep into believing that it is not a matter of faith anymore, but it simply is your reality. The action that faith implies has been abandoned because you are immersed into the results of it: Sources value is in you and all around you; there is no place where it is not and you will transform into your original form, Union.

Communication Exercises 2

Twin Flame Union implies being together as the foundational element of life: life is a co-creation at heart! This means communication between the two of you is a natural flow of energy, inner hearing, outer speaking, writing, texting and so on and so forth. But for many there comes a time in which that stops (temporarily) at least on the outer plane, and often the biggest pain is exactly that. This can be healed.

- 2.1 Your Twin Flame and you, how do you communicate? Write about it.
- 2.2 Are there communication issues in your Union? Which? Write about them. How would you call your communication blocks?
- 2.3 What if they meant everything deeply lovingly that they said to you, or that they temporarily do not communicate, what does that change? What would that mean in your case?
- 2.4 What would you want to share with your Twin Flame?
- 2.5 What would you desire to share with the world about Twin Flames?

Make a video in which you share 2.5. First, make an outline with a couple of short points and come up with a title. Then make the video.
